VOL. LXXVIII. CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1905. NO 25.

DON'T BE A SUCKER.

There is really only one way to acquire a competency—one sure way—save and make wise investments. By investments is not meant purchases of stock or grain on margins. People have made money that way on "sure things" and they have also gone broke. Any scheme that contemplates getting rich quickly is naturally hazardous It is a good deal like a bucking broncho—it may go the other way to the detriment of the rider. Any scheme that offers immense profits is simply a case of a cyclone that is almost sure to drop you bleeding and mangled by the wayside.

Don't take any stock in promises of big interest—the banks have ample money that they will be glad to put out on good security at 6 per cent. interest; private bankers are in the same fix; don't leave a deposit of cash to assure your honesty with any man. If he needs your services where your position will be one of responsibility secure a bond, but do not give up good cash; do not buy stock or make any other investment without ascertaining from your bankers whether it is good security or not.

Don't be a sucker.

Don't be a private detective. That would be a sucker play. Don't trust your ills to quacks; don't invest your money away from your banker's advice. Don't play the other man's game.

Don't be a sucker.

Cuba is reported to be in need of many thousands of laborers to till her fields and gather her crops. Quite a number of Spaniards have sought the island since the war with their country closed and these have been welcomed, as they bear the climate well and affiliate with the people. Negroes from the United States have been tried, but they do not succeed very well and generally return to this country. White Americans seek the island for investment purposes and a number of them have become plantation owners. But the supply of the laborers is still very short and the matter is occasioning much embarrasment. Apparently the Cuban government should seek to stimulate immigration from Southern Europe, including Italy as well as Spain. The fact that so many laborers are needed indicates that Cuba is prospering as she has not for along while and accentuates the benefits which have resulted from the termination of Spanish rule.

The desire for a union of all Lutherans expressed by the representatives of an important body professing Lutheran doctrines, who have been in session in Pittsburg is a further gratifying indication of the fact that Christians generally are becoming less and less disposed to insist on unimportant differences. Earnest church people of all denominations are perceiving that th re is weakness for the cause of Christianity generally in the multiplicity of denominations differing from each other in really unimportant matters. Because of the many divisions among Christians, churches are weak where they should be strong, and infidelity is fostered because of the multiplicity of faiths. There ought to be no inseparable barriers to all Lutherans uniting. It is certain that the stronger the sentiment for union among all Christians the better will be the results achieved for the cause of religion generally.

The lessons of the battle of the Sea of Japan, as they may effect the American navy, seem to lie in the direction of development of the personnel and of target practice. In our navy there is quite a large percentage of foreigners—not so large as is sometimes represented, but still large. Can the same results be obtained from such a force as has been secured by the Japanese navy, in which no man not a Jap can obtain a place in any capacity? Patriotism counts for more than any other thing in the war. The American navy should be manned throughout by Americans, every man of them willing to give his life for his country ungrudgingly.

A well balanced navy, with gunnery developed to the highest possible degree, will make for the preservation of national prestige.

If President Roosevelt closes the Russo-Japanese peace negotiations before Secretary Hay gets back at his desk in the state department, a lot of Americans who have the Hay fever will suffer a relapse.

President Roosevelt gets more and more democratic. He has bought a country estate in old Virginia, not far from the classic shade of Monticello.

It is short, quick step from a trust-busting president's cabinet to a trust presidency or attorneyship.

The Panama canal problem is more a problem of endemic pestilence than of engineering at present.

REDUCED RATES TO ASBURY PARK

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account Meeting National Educational Association.

For the benefit of those desiring to attend the meeting of the National Educational Association, to be held at Asbury Park, N. Spring Mills.

Thomas Decker had the misfortune to cut his foot last week.

I. W. Bartges, of Centre Hill, spent Sunday with his brother Charles, in town.

James Lingle, of Jersey Shore, spent Sunday with his parents in Georges Valley.

C. M. Gramley, of Rebersburg, made a business trip to town one day last week.

S. L. Condo Saturday delivered a fine carriage to Joshua Potter, near Centre Hall.

Quite a number from town attended the Golden Eagle festival at Madisonburg Saturday evening.

Miss Luella Krape, who had been attending the academy, returned to her home in Bellefonte, Monday.

Adam Finkle moved his mill from Smithtown to the tract south of town, which he recently bought of the Evans estate.

John Rossman, a student at Franklin and Marshall college, Lancaster, arrived Saturday and will spend the summer at home.

Children's day services in the Lutheran church Sunday evening were of a pleasing character. It was an enjoyable entertainment of song and recitation. The music, under the direction of Prof. W. E. Ream, was one of the special features. The pastor, Rev. J. M. Rearick, made a very interesting address. All who took such a hearty interest to make it a success are to be complimented. The children were exceptionally well trained and took their parts admirably.

Saving Time.

The man who makes two blades of grass grow where there had been but one is proverbially a public benefactor. Similarly, perhaps, the man or the agency that adds to the ease of life or the facility of its active operations deserves recognition. Such, in effect, is the accomplishment of the Pennsylvania Railroad in its new service to and from the West, and the fact that it is a corporation, seeking primarily to increase its revenues, need not detract from the acknowledgment.

To most persons, perhaps, the sensational reduction of the New York-Chicago running time to eighteen hours appeals in much the same way as a record-breaking automobile trip—an interesting and somewhat exciting achievement, says the Philadelphia North American. But it is much more. It brings the commercial centre of the Middle West three or four hours nearer to Philadelphia and New York; and this saving of precious time is multiplied infinitely through its effect upon business activities and intercommunication.

Once more, and conclusively, the Pennsylvania Railroad has proved its title to the term "standard"—a title won in the most intense competition for supremacy in equipment and operation. Some of the policies of the management in the past have proved mistaken; but no one can question that in physical results, such as improved construction and progressive schedules, the Pennsylvania sets the pace for all its rivals.

ACADEMY'S CENTENNIAL.

Bellefonte Academy Thronged with Friends for Birthday Celebration.

The centennial celebration of the founding of the Bellefonte Academy, Friday of last week, was a great success. The attendance of old students who there laid the foundation of their education and consequent success in life was unusually large. The forenoon was spent in visiting places of interest in and around the town.

In the afternoon the formal exercises were held in the Opera House. General James A. Beaver, chairman of the Centennial Committee, presided, and made the first speech. He told of the early struggles of the academy for existence, saying that of the forty or more academies chartered in 1805 only five are now in existence.

Following General Beaver's address, J. Thomas Mitchell read an historical address, after which Dr. George W. Atherton, of State College, spoke on "Education Under State Control." The principal address was made by Charles Emory Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press, who talked on "The Academy as an Independent Factor in Education."

The centennial closed with a big assembly in the armory.

Meeting of Synod.

The General Synod of the Lutheran church of the United States convened 14th instant. The General Synod is one of four large bodies, of which the Lutheran church in this country is composed. It was organized in 1820, and has 223,473 communicant members. It is a representative body and has 260 delegates, of whom an equal number are laymen. The body meets every two years. The amount of money contributed the past two years was $3,774,394.91, of this sum the amount for benevolence was $587,229.96.

This body formulates the orders of service, publishes the hymnals, literature and forms for ministerial acts. It is one of the largest and most aggressive bodies of the Lutheran church in this country.

The following ministers are the delegates from Central Pennsylvania Synod: Wm. H. Dolbeer, Belleville; H. C. Holloway, Bellefonte; J. I. Stonecypher, Boalsburg; W. H. Schoch, New Berlin; W. M. Rearick, West Milton.

The following lay members were also chosen as delegates from Central Pennsylvania Synod: L. D. Kurtz, Hon. T. K. Beaver, A. H. Bowersox, H. E. Duck, A. M. Brown.

The officers elected were Rev. Dr. D H. Bauslin, of Springfield, O., Rev. Dr. H. K. Benner, of Louisville, Ky., was re-elected secretary, and George H. Knollenberg, a layman, of Richmond, Ind., was re-elected treasurer.

Law Amended.

The last legislature so amended the law regulating the sale of concentrated commercial feeding stuffs that corn bran, wheat, rye and buckwheat bran and middlings cannot be sold without having attached in a conspicuous place a legible and plainly printed statement certifying the number net pounds of feeding stuff the package contains, the name, brand or trade-mark under which the article is sold, the name and address of the manufacturer or importer, and a statement of the percentage it contains of crude fat and crude protein. This also applies to hay, straw and corn stover when the same are mixed with other materials, but this does not prevent persons manufacturing flour in the state from selling, at the place made, their own manufacture of bran and middlings without the certificate.

Lock Haven Pastor Weds.

Miss Marion Brenner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S S. Brenner, and Rev. Samuel Stein, of St. Luke's Reformed church, Lock Haven, were married Thursday afternoon in St. Paul's Reformed church, Mechanicsburg, by Rev. J. Rauch Stein, of Harrisburg, brother of the bridegroom, assisted by Rev. Rupley, of St. Paul's church. Rev. and Mrs. Stein will spend their honeymoon in Europe.

College Head Quits.

The Rev. John B. Focht, president of Susquehanna University, tendered his resignation, which was promptly accepted by the trustees.

In an interview, he said that the resignation was due to friction in that his authority in the general management of the school was not recognized and that certain financial agreements were over-looked.

Largest Foundry in the World.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company's new foundry plant in South Altoona was put in operation Friday. The soft iron foundry has a capacity of 900 wheels a day, making it the largest in the world. Souvenirs were made in celebration of the occasion. The plant cost about $2,000,000.

HAPPENINGS OF 1871.

Calvin Bottorf, while working for Jacob Ripka as an apprentice, was assisting him in tearing down an old barn, when he was struck with a piece of timber, breaking his shoulder blade and several ribs.

[At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce Creek Railroad held at Penn Hall, in June, the stockholders voted that the road to be built through Penns Valley should be a narrow guage road. The narrow guage was championed by the Reporter. The Democratic Watchman pointed out the error of building a narrow guage road, and later the stockholders, at least a majority of them, took a similar view. The result was that a road of standard width was constructed.]

JULY 14—George Fell died suddenly at Rebersburg. From the position in which he was found in the morning it was evident that he died while in the act of removing his boots. His age was 47 years.

In giving his report of the public schools, Superintendent R. M. Magee says: The pernicious practice of paying the same wages to all—good, bad and indifferent—without regard to grade of certificate, is becoming less common. Whole number of schools, 204; male teachers, 133; female teachers, 71; average age, 25 years. [The report makes mention of the fact that "both the buildings recently erected at LLOYSVILLE have blackboards on all sides of the room." Who will tell the younger readers of the Reporter where LLOYSVILLE is?]

A stallion lacerated the arm of William Stamm, of Boalsburg, to such an extent that amputation became necessary. The horse was being taken to the blacksmith shop, when he seized his master by the arm at a point above the elbow and crushed it at two places.

AUGUST 1—One of the old Hoffer farms, west of Centre Hall, lately owned by Dr. Deshler, of Aaronsburg, was sold to Dr. Peter Smith, of Centre Hall, for $13,300—127 acres.

AUGUST 11—Rev. J. H. Harpster, of Centre Hall, accepted his first charge, which was at Marysville, Perry county. [He is now a missionary in India.]

The Democratic county convention placed in nomination the following ticket:

Assembly—P. Gray Meek, Bellefonte
Associate Judge—W. W. Love, Potter
Henry Dopp, Howard
Treasurer—James F. Weaver, Milesburg
Commissioner—S. F. Foster, Potter
Dist. Atty.—John F. Potter, Bellefonte

The entire ticket was elected October 10, by majorities ranging from 300 to 575.

AUGUST 25—Last Sunday night an unknown man attempted to gain entrance to the Thompson store at Martha Furnace. He had cut a hole into one of the shutters and then lit a match to enable him to make an examination of the fastenings. Spear Thompson, a young man on the inside, fired in the direction of the light. Next morning a dead man was found lying on the porch. The ball had penetrated his forehead. [Later it was learned that the man's name was Samuel Hutchinson. The body was exhumed and identified by a brother from Adison, New York.]

Sunday night about forty-one houses were destroyed in the city of Williamsport. The light caused by the fire was plainly visible at this place.

The partnership of Peter Kerlin and A. A. Kerlin, merchants at Sinking Creek Mills, [Stone Mill] was dissolved. The latter became a student at Missionary Institute, Selinsgrove.

While plowing, David Young, of Ferguson township, was struck by lightning and badly burned. The bolt first killed one of the horses he was using, then passed along the animal to the plow, shattering the handles. The lightning passed up one of Mr. Young's arms and made a complete circuit of his body.

SEPTEMBER 15—Ground was broken for the Lewisburg, Centre & Tyrone Railroad, at a point about three miles east of Centre Hall, in a cornfield owned by Jonathan Royer, September 12, at 12:17 p. m., the first ground being turned by the venerable Peter Wilson, of Spring Mills. Messrs. Van Dyke and Moore were the contractors for the portion of road lying between the point named above to within three miles of Oak Hall.

The dwelling house of Samuel Krise, in Gregg township, was destroyed by fire on September 14.

S. S. Wolf and H. D. Van Pelt leased the Centre Hall foundry, taking possession October 2.

The farm of Peter Durst, containing 260 acres, above Earlystown, was sold at public sale to Daniel Durst for $106 per acre.

NOVEMBER 7—On Thursday night the straw stack in front of Daniel Durst's barn, at Earlystown, was set on fire and consumed. With great difficulty the barn was saved from destruction. [This was at the barn now owned by D. Bartges.]

James McCormick, tenant on the Huston farm, [now owned by Jacob Sharer] raised 2049 bushels of corn from 17½ acres.

NOVEMBER 24—David F. Smith, son of George D. Smith, of Potters Mills, was accidentally shot and killed while in the woods in Clearfield county. The ball took off the thumb and fingers of the left hand, entered his right side and passed through his body and out on his left side.

Married—July 11, William Carlin and Miss Emma M. Leitzel, both of Potters Mills . . . August 29, W. H. Bilger and Miss Caroline Stine, both of Pleasant Gap. . . . August 30, Emanuel C. Fye and Miss Sarah C. Strouse, both of Ferguson township. . . . September 7, William F. Smith and Miss Margaret E. Kimport, both of Smithville . . . September 17, Harry Weber and Miss Sarah Ann Meyers, both of Centre Hall . . . September 26, Thomas Scholl and Miss Elizabeth Homan, both of Gregg township . . . September 27, George H. Emerick, of Centre Hall, and Miss Anna Bell Pennington, of Earlystown . . . September 7, John Bubb and Miss Jane E. Stoner, both of Potter township . . . September 19, Joseph G. Carson and Mrs. Catharine Ketner, both of Potters Mills . . . October 31, Rev. J. K. Miller, of Centre Hall, and Miss Ellen Lonberger, of Mount Independence. . . . November 9, T. C. Heims, of Osceola, and Miss Lizzie V. Hess, of Linden Hall.

LOCALS.

Mrs. King has been ill for the pas two weeks, but is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin S. Meyer, of Altoona, came to Centre Hall, to see the latter's father, George Stover, who had been seriously ill.

Master William Garis knows how well the Reporter force love flowers, so he brought to this office, Saturday morning, a large bouquet of roses. Thanks, William.

Landlord Brown has repainted the Milroy hotel. Since re-opening the well-known hostelry, the Milroy correspondent says, the stopping place has become more popular than ever.

Rev. W. J. Wagner, of Buckhorn, is stopping with his sister, Mrs. A. E. Kerlin, in this place, on his way home from Pittsburg, where he attended the meeting of the General Synod of the Lutheran church.

If Russia does not pay the indemnity demanded by Japan and stop the scrap now, she is pretty certain to be so disfigured that an international coroner's jury will find it difficult to establish her identity.

D. R. Foreman, deputy prothonotary, accompanied W. W. Spangler to Centre Hall Friday afternoon, and remained over Sunday with his mother, Mrs. John Foreman, in this place. While spending the time here, his wife and daughter were in Philipsburg.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

Russia is exceedingly anxious to obtain peace at a bargain counter price.

At a special meeting of the borough council Messrs. Gettig, Bower & Zerby were elected borough solicitors.

June has been cool enough to make the lilies shiver; but the red roses are flaming like fire in her furnace!

Mary, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dinges, fell and cut her knee to such an extent that Dr. Lee, in dressing it, was obliged to stitch the wound.

Rev. Mr. Schmidt, of Bellefonte, has been appointed a member of the Penna. State delegation to the International Sunday School convention. It will meet in Toronto, Canada, June 22nd to 27th inclusive.

Among those from a distance who attended the Hazell-Shaffer reunion, last week, was Jacob Hazell, of Goshen, Indiana, who went west with his father, John Hazell, from Madisonburg, when a mere child.

The Peter Dornblaser homestead farm, in Porter township, Clinton county, containing 105 acres, more recently owned by the late Puella E. Dornblaser, was sold at executor's sale to Pierce M. Dornblaser for the sum of $6,050.

Rev. and Mrs. Harnish, of Lemont, recently attended the funeral of Col. Hartshorn at Philadelphia. Col. Hartshorn is the father of Mrs. Harnish, and during the civil war served as Lieut. Colonel of the 49th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was a native of Clearfield county.

George C. Tate, of Yeagertown, has been awarded the contract to erect a large building on Brown street, Lewistown, to be used for amusements of various characters. The building is being constructed for John C. Henderson, a prominent business man. Mr. Tate formerly lived at Centre Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spangler, of Centre Hall, last week attended the funeral of the former's youngest brother, George Spangler, of New Berlin. His age was sixty-nine years. He is survived by three brothers—Elias, aged ninety; William, aged seventy-four; John, aged seventy-eight.

Charles Fisher, who a couple of years ago was sent from Bellefonte to the Huntingdon reformatory and the past few months had been out on parole and was working for Dr. Huston at Clintondale, one night early last week stole a horse, was caught the next day and later was returned to to the reformatory.

Messrs. George A. and Harry Hettinger, all of near Centre Hill, were callers at the Reporter office Thursday evening. The latter is conducting the Hettinger farm in Georges Valley, for his mother, Mrs. S. W. Hettinger. He states that his sister, Miss Lottie, who has been in Harrisburg since last fall will be home this week.

A strange sickness has been attacking many children in Punxsutawney and vicinity during the past month, and adults have not altogether escaped the attack. The symptoms are high fever, vomiting and soreness of back and neck, and in many cases the patient is left with a "wry neck," from the effects of which it takes two to four weeks to recover.

Hon. W. A. Murray and daughter, Miss Marion, of Boalsburg, were in Centre Hall the latter part last week. Mr. Murray was engaged in surveying mountain land for Mrs. Mary Ross, and Miss Marion spent her time with friends. The latter recently passed a very creditable examination for a school teacher's certificate in a class where several teachers of more or less experience failed.

Miss Ella Alters, who some time ago had an operation performed in the University Hospital for necrosis poison of the jaw, returned to Bellefonte. The wound is healing up nicely and it is the belief that she will fully recover. After the jaw becomes solid she will return to the city where she will have a plastic operation by the professor of oral surgery. This means that a silver plate will be made to fit in the mouth to correct the deformity of the face caused by the destruction of the bone.

Regularly each year, as the time for electing school teachers comes, the discussion of curtailing the privilege of directors to vote for relatives is discussed. There is a tendency for those having relatives as applicants to support them regardless of their qualifications, which in many instances works harm to the school cause. Many boards pass resolutions forbidding a member to vote for a relative, and in this way prevent the consummation of any pernicious effort on the part of directors who would rather sacrifice the schools than to their own blood turned down.

CUBA MOURNS HERO

Highest Honors to Be Paid to General Gomez.

BODY IN STATE AND MANY VIEW IT.

Congress Decrees That His Body Shall Receive Military Honors Corresponding to Those That Would Be Paid on the Death of a President of the Republic—President Palma's Message to the People.

Havana (Special).—The body of Gen. Maximo Gomez, who died Saturday, has been lying in state in the principal hall of the palace since 7 o'clock. A guard of honor surrounds the casket. There was a continuous stream of people defiling past the body all day, eager to take a last look at the old revolutionist, to whom Cuba owes so much. In this, however, they were disappointed, as the face was covered. It is understood that this was done at the request of General Gomez before he died. There were an immense number of wreaths from Havana and other places. President Palma has given up his living quarters in the palace to the family of General Gomez.

The Official Gazette contains a message from President Palma to the Cuban people. In it he says that Major General Maximo Gomez, chief of the liberating army, is dead. There is not a single heart in Cuba which does not feel wounded by so rude a blow. The loss is irreparable. All the nation is in mourning, and as all are identified with the same sentiment of profound sorrow the government need not stimulate it in order that it be universal.

At a session held after midnight Congress declared Monday and Tuesday days of national mourning. It also provided that the body of General Gomez should receive military honors corresponding with those that would be paid on the death of a president of the republic; that his funeral should be of a national character, for which $15,000 was appropriated. The armed forces of the republic will wear mourning for nine days.

BURNED AT THE STAKE.

Terrible Orgies Followed When Traders Took Eskimos Whiskey.

Seattle, Wash. (Special).—A dispatch from Nome says a reign of terror recently prevailed on the Diomedi Islands. The trouble was caused by whalers trading whisky for furs and ivory.

Eight ships were anchored off the islands during the orgies, during which a young native woman was burned at the stake, one native man was hanged and three were shot. Chief Kutzeena was kept continually drunk.

The schooner Louise, after an investigation and instructions from Washington, has been seized by the Collector of Customs. The Louise left two weeks ago loaded with whisky and returned with a cargo of whalebone, ivory and furs. It is rumored that the schooner traded at Diomedi Islands. The Siberian authorities are aroused over the matter.

NEW YORK'S CENSUS.

Report Gain of Half a Million in Five Years.

New York (Special).—New York has gained half a million in population in five years, according to an estimate based on the returns received in the city's census.

To be exact, the city has gained 16 per cent., which would give it an increase of 549,952 in five years. This would bring the total population of Greater New York up to 4,000,000.

Superintendent Brown has found an amazing increase in many of the assembly districts. There are also, however, sections in which the population has fallen off, due to the destruction of buildings and other causes.

Cotton Acreage Less.

Dallas, Texas (Special).—John T. Garner, business agent and manager of the cotton department of the Farmers' Union, has issued a cotton report showing a reduction of cotton acreage as per sworn statements from union and non-union farmers through the Southern cotton belt. He says that about January 1, 150,000 cotton coupons were sent out to members of the union on which coupons the farmers were each to state what their cotton acreage was last year, and to write a pledge that it would not exceed a given number of blank acres this year.

3,500,000 Eggs in Storage.

York, Pa. (Special).—The buying and storing of eggs in York county by agents for York and Baltimore cold-storage houses has come to a close for the year. The prices at present asked by the farmers and poultry raisers are too high to render buying profitable. In one cold-storage warehouse there are packed 2,400,000 eggs, which will be held until next winter, when they will be put upon the market.

Five Hundred Dead in Mine.

Ekaterinoslav (By Cable).—A frightful tragedy has occurred at the Ivan Colliery, at Khartsisk, near this place. An explosion of gas in the mine resulted in the killing of 500 persons and the injury of many others. The colliery belonged to the Russian Donetz Company. The Khartsisk district produces about one-fourth of the semi-anthracite coal mined in Russia.

Lynching Averted.

Valdosta, Ga. (Special).—The assurance that a special term of court would be called for the trial of J. G. Rawlings, his three sons and the negroes, all of whom are alleged to be connected with the assassination of the Carter children, has done much to still the tempest of popular indignation, which was rising high. The court will be held early in July if Judge Mitchell agrees to that time. Solicitor Thomas said that the State would be ready for trial any time.

NEWS IN SHORT ORDER.

The Latest Happenings Condensed for Rapid Reading.

FOR OFFICIAL REFORMS

The President Urges Sweeping Changes in Methods.

PAY IN PROPORTOIN TO THE WORK.

Too Much Time Wasted in Perfunctory Letter-writing—Official Gazette, Uniform Standards, Central Purchasing Office for Supplies, and Business Methods in Bookkeeping Urged "Paper Work" a Menace in Army and Navy.

Washington (Special).—The President has appointed a commision of five to report to him on improved methods of doing the public business in the various bureaus and departments.

The scope and character of the work expected of the committee is indicated in the following letter, addressed to Charles H. Keep, assistant secretary of the treasury, by President Roosevelt:

"You are hereby designated as chairman of a committee, to consist, in addition to yourself, of the following four gentlemen: Frank H. Hitchcock, first assistant postmaster general; Lawrence O. Murray, assistant secretary of commerce and labor; James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, and Gifford Pinchot, forester, Department of Agriculture, who are to investigate and find out what changes are needed to place the conduct of the executive business of the government in all its branches on the most economical and effective basis in the light of the best modern business practice. In making this investigation I would like you to have in view securing an improvement in business methods, particularly among the following:

"In preparation of decisions for ministerial approval, expert knowledge of actual conditions affecting or affected by such decisions should govern, as distinguished from a knowledge of the record alone.

Salaries should be commensurate with the character and market value of the service performed and uniform for similar service in all departments.

Government supplies, except such as are required to meet emergencies or for immediate use in the field, should be standardized and purchased through a central purchasing office.

It is the duty of the accounting and auditing officers to facilitate executive work. Fiscal restrictions or regulations should not interfere with executive discretion, should be uniform and should be as few and simple as is consistent with accuracy and safety. Systems of book-keeping and accounting should conform to the most approved modern business methods.

The existence of any method, standard, custom or practice is no reason for its continuance when a better is offered.

The comparative cost of all work for which cost keeping is possible should be ascertained as between offices and departments and as between the government and private enterprise, and should be followed by the adoption of standards of maximum cost.

There should be systematic interdepartmental co-operation in the use of expert or technical knowledge. The business methods of the different departments should be substantially uniform. In the adoption of methods and the performance of work every step which is not clearly indispensible should be eliminated.

As between the adoption of a uniform standard and the actual efficiency of any office, the former must yield.

No recommendation for change should be made until after full consultation with all executive officers affected.

There should be published an official gazette to contain all executive orders, statements of changes in organizations or personnel, reports of important work begun, in progress or completed by any department, advertisements of all government contracts, all legal notices not required to be published locally, notices of coming civil service examinations, etc.

A resolute effort should be made to secure brevity in correspondence and the elimination of useless letter-writing. There is a type of bureaucral who believe that his entire work, and that the entire work of the government, should be the collecting of papers in reference to a case, commenting with eager minuteness on each and corresponding with other officials in reference thereto. These people really care nothing for the case, but only for the documents in the case. In all branches of the government there is a tendency greatly to increase unnecessary and largely perfunctory letter-writing. In the Army and Navy the increase of paper work is a serious menace to the efficiency of fighting officers, who are often required by bureaucrats to spend time in making reports which they should spend in increasing the efficiency of the battleships or regiments under them. As regards his matter you will please confer with the assistant secretaries of the War and Navy Departments and request them to submit to me a scheme for doing away with the evils referred to. In the civil departments the abuse of letter-writing amounts not merely to the waste of time of the government servant responsible for it, but also to the impeding of public business.

"Please consider also the matter of enforcing accountability for property."

Asked as to his plans for the immediate future, Mr. Hay said: "I intend to remain with Mr. and Mrs. Whitney for a time. I can't say just how long. It is probable that I will run down to Washington for a few days soon and look over the matters that need my attention in the State Department.

TWENTY-FIVE DEAD IN WRECK.

Several of the More Seriously Hurt Succumbed in the Hospitals.

Baltimore, Md. (Special).—Twenty-five killed, 20 badly injured and two slightly hurt is the result of a head-on collision on the Western Maryland Railroad which occurred at 6 o'clock P. M. about one and a half miles south of Patapsco Station, which is about 10 miles south of Westminster.

All of the dead and injured were employes of the Western Maryland Railroad, the dead having been engaged in wrecking work, and were on the way to their homes in Western Maryland when the accident occurred.

The injured were brought to this city at 10.30 o'clock and were removed to the City Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital, where they received prompt medical attention. The train bearing the dead was sent on to Westminster.

The cause of the accident was a head-on collision between a heavily laden freight train of about 18 cars drawn by Engines 41 and 43, which was coming toward Baltimore, and passenger train No. 5, which left Hillen Station, in this city, at 5 o'clock. The trains, both of which were going at good speed, crashed together at 5.55 o'clock, and just where the blame lies must necessarily be fixed by the officials of the Western Maryland Railroad and a coroner's jury of inquest, which will be held in Carroll county near the scene of the accident.

According to the statements made by the railroad officials Sunday, the wreck was due, as far as can be learned, to a fatal case of forgetfulness on the part of the enginemen and conductor of the freight train, who, after the passage of train No. 17, which leaves Baltimore at 4.15 for Union Bridge, seemed to be impressed with the idea that the No. 5 passenger train had also passed.

The authority for this statement comes from Rear Brakeman Lynch, of the freight train, who heard the conversation held by the engineers and conducior of the freight train while the latter was standing at Gorsuch Siding, and by good fortune escaped with his life to tell the tale.

TRAGEDY IN A STREET CAR.

Jealous Italian Drives a Stiletto Into the Side of His Rival.

New York (Special).—Rushing into a well-filled car at Fourteenth street and Avenue B, Vincenzo Garabillo plunged a keen-pointed stiletto into Marcello Micheli, who, it is said, had won the affections of a young woman in whom both were interested. Garabillo escaped, and the friends of the victim of the assault, who probably will die, pleaded with the police not to search for him, but to allow him or his friends to settle the account in their own way.

The passengers in the street car were thrown into a panic when Garabillo, with the long knife in his hand, jumped aboard and hurried through the car to where Micheli was sitting. Micheli was one of the first to see him and made a dash for the front door in an effort to escape, but the other man was too quick for him, and plunged the knife into his rival's side. None of the passengers dared interfere, and the assailant ran from the car and disappeared. The wounded man was taken to a hospital.

Exterminated By Turks.

Salonica (By Cable).—The band of Macedonian insurgents, 80 strong, commanded by Tontcheff, was completely exterminated by Turkish troops, near Jalanka, June 13, after seven hours severe fighting. The Turks lost 9 killed, including two officers, and had 11 men wounded.

Tomas Plaza, of Ecuador, under special act of Congress, will receive instructions with the class of 145 candidates just received as cadets.

Bank Official Pleads Guilty.

Toledo, O. (Special).—Facing three federal indictments containing 21 counts, the combined minimum sentence of which would mean a continuous sentence of 105 years and a maximum sentence of 210 years, Orus M. Burns, the Montpelier (O.) banker, indicted by the federal grand jury for embezzlement, misapplication of bank funds, false entries and perjury, voluntarily entered the United States District Court and entered a plea of guilty on one count in one indictment. Judge R. W. Tayler sentenced Burns to seven years in the Ohio Penitentiary.

A Hotel Mystery.

St. Louis, Mo. (Special).—The dead body of an unknown man was found lying across a bed in the Hotel Barnum, but there was no evidence to show what had caused his death. Wednesday two men registering as T. Martin and R. H. Patterson were assigned to the room. One was found dead and the other has disappeared. It is not known which name the dead man bore nor whence he came. On his breast was tattooed the image of a sailor holding a flag and his hat sweatband is stamped "Manasses, New Orleans."

ALL EUROPE ABLAZE

Effect of Crisis Between Germany and France.

GREAT DANGER ON THE FRONTIER.

Slight Break May Cause a Bad Rupture—Premier Rouvier Decides to Continue as Foreign Minister During the Period of Strained Relations—Germany Will Not Recognize French Predominance in Morocco.

London (By Cable).—It can no longer be denied that we are in the presence of an international crisis of the first magnitude. A dispatch from Paris reports that the French government is almost convinced that it is Germany's deliberate intention to provoke war.

Orders were given by the Ministry of War to make every preparation to resist attack. All officers and men on leave were ordered to rejoin the colors instantly. Special trains in all parts of the country have been facilitating the execution of the instructions.

Prime Minister Rouvier has adopted the most conciliatory attitude toward Germany, but every concession he makes inspires fresh demands, until now Empero William asks, in effect, the cancellation of the Anglo-French entente.

This is not, of course, demanded in so many words, but it is insisted that France shall make no combinations antagonistic to German interests. Complete submission to all the pressure the Emperor is now putting upon the French Republic would reduce the country to vassalage. France sincerely desires to avoid war, but at the moment it is apparent that Germany is deliberately attempting to humiliate her French pride, which will burst into uncontrollable resentment.

It should not be inferred that the British attitude is in any degree weak or yielding. The British government is fully aware that Germany's aggression is aimed quite as much at Great Britain as against France.

Lord Lansdowne is all for peace, but the remainder of the cabinet are determined to resist with all the resources of the empire any serious encroachment on British interests. Lord Lansdowne has counseled France, while avoiding all provocation, to preserve a firm attitude in face of German aggression.

Great Britain has also taken important independent action, which is not yet disclosed. It will become known when the China Squadron and other ships of the British Navy, which are hastening homeward at top speed, approach their destination. It will be found to be quite as significant as the mobilization of the Flying Squadron, which was Great Britain's response to the German Emperor's famous Kruger letters. There is reason to believe also that even if France yields to German pressure in the matter of an international conference in regard to Morocco Great Britain will veto it, even if she stands alone.

The British government and people were never more anxious for peace than now, but if the Emperor should attempt to deal with this country as he is treating France war would be a question only of hours. Meantime the developments in the Russo-Japanese peace movement command only the secondary attention of official circles and the general public.

Great Britain has probably gone somewhat further than the others powers in her refusal to take part in the proposed conference of the signatory powers of the Madrid convention, but should France, after all, agree to a conference, which is now considered probable, Great Britain could gracefully do likewise, since the refusal of Great Britain was made on the understanding that the conference was unfavorably vicwed by France.

In fact, the attitude of Great Britain is much the same as that of the United States, the latter having indicated that she will wait until it is seen what France will do.

Sunk By Russians.

Singapore (By Cable).—The Russian auxiliary cruiser Dnieper recently stopped the Dutch steamer Flores, from Amsterdam for Batavia, in the Straits of Malacca and transferred to her 41 of the Chinese crew and the mails belonging to the British steamer St. Kilda, from Hongkong, captured the Dnieper with contraband on board and sunk in the China Sea. The European officers of the St. Kilda returned here on board the Dnieper.

A Young Wife Burned.

Cambridge, Md. (Special).—The wife of Allen Tyler was shockingly burned as a result of attempting to start a fire with coal oil. Her little stepdaughter, who was by her side at the time of the explosion, was also seriously burned. Both were taken to the hospital, and Mrs. Tyler's death is expected to occur during the night. The little girl will recover. Mrs. Tyler is but 19 years old, and was married last fall.

To Divide Surplus.

Madison, Wis. (Special).—The Senate has passed the Host bill, to compel the mutual life insurance companies to divide their surpluses among the policyholders at least once every five years. It now goes to the Governor for his approval, and it is believed that he will sign the measure. This is one of the most important measures passed by the Legislature this session, and will have a direct bearing upon the squabble over the Equitable millions in New York.

A Chair of Philanthropy.

Columbus, O. (Special).—The trustees of Otterbein University, a United Brethren college at Westerville, have decided upon a departure in education in the establishment of a chair of philanthropy and practical religion. The purpose of the new department is to afford an opportunity for training, not only in the Christian ministry, but also for work in various philanthropic enterprises, such as Young Men's Christian Association, social settlements and city missions.

PRESIDENT GIVES ORDER.

Care Must Be Used in Enforcing Chinese Exclusion Act.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—President Roosevelt is manifesting a deep interest in the statements made to him by a delegation of members of the American Asiatic Association concerning the difficulties which hitherto have been experienced by Chinese merchants, students, travelers and literary men in gaining admission to this country.

The complaints of the Chinese Government about the alleged humiliation to which members of these classes of Chinese often are subjected upon their arrival in the United States, together with the threats of the commercial guilds of China to retaliate by boycotting American-made goods, have also aroused the business men of this country to protest against what they regard as unreasonable discrimination in the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws.

In a letter to Secretary Metcalf, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the President directs him to see that the immigration officers exercise discretion in the enforcement of the exclusion law, to the end that the relations of this Government with China may continue to be cordial.

It is pointed out that great difficulty is experienced by the immigration officers in executing the law, because of the many bogus certificates presented by Chinese. It is a well understood fact that, for a consideration, a Chinese coolie may procure in China a certificate that he is a merchant or a traveler or a member of another of the exempt classes. On its face, the certificate entitles him to admission to the United States. So many frauds have been discovered in the matter of these certificates that the immigration officials examine all of them most carefully. That fact accounts for the trouble experienced by genuine merchants, travelers, etc., when they arrive at United States ports.

Thus far no feasible plan has been worked out to remedy the trouble, of which the Chinese complain. Secretary Metcalf is in favor of Congressional legislation on the subject, providing for a rigid supervision of the issuance of certificates in China, the idea being to hold absolutely responsible for the accuracy of the statements contained in the certificates the officials who issue them.

STRANGE DEATH OF TWO YOUNG WOMEN.

May Have Been the Result of a Suicide Pact.

Freeport, Ill. (Special).—Mystery surrounds the death of Mrs. John Young, 20, and Miss Media Pyle, 18 years old, whose bodies were found close together in the Pecatonica River here. A suicide compact is believed to have been entered into by the two young women, who were close friends, and a love affair is reported to have caused them to agree to end their lives. A post-mortem examination, however, showed the elder woman undoubtedly died by drowning, but the girl did not, as her lungs were filled with air. There was a large contusion on her forehead.

It is the coroner's theory that the girl wished to withdraw from the suicide compact and that the woman knocked her unconscious and threw her into the water. There is but one set of footsteps on the bank, and no signs of a body being dragged to the water. Mrs. Young and Miss Pyle were intimate, despite the objections of the parents of the young woman, who endeavored in vain to break up the friendship. Mrs. Young had been estranged from her husband for two years.

There is a story that the two young women were frequently in the company of two young men, who were likewise close friends, and that a quarrel over the same subject resulted in the estrangement of both couples and the resolve of the women to end their woes by death.

VETERANS IN SMASHUP.

Train Bound For Louisville Reunion Wrecked.

Albion, Ill. (Special).—Three persons were killed and 20 injured in a wreck of the eastbound passenger train on the Southern Railway, at Golden Gate. The train was a "cotton special," carrying Confederate Veterans to the reunion at Louisville, Ky. While running at a speed of 50 miles an hour the engine struck a spread rail on a trestle 20 feet high and the engine and four coaches were overturned and fell to the bottom of the ravine.

The train consisted of three Pullmans and four coaches. Two of the sleepers were derailed, but did not go over the trestle. The third sleeper remained on the track.

Most of the injured were taken to Louisville. The others were taken westward by way of Olney. J. J. Uhlee, the only passenger that was killed, was a merchant of Greenway, Ark.

LIVE WASHINGTON AFFAIRS.

A Japanese Game.

A game popular with both grown people and children in Japan is played as follows:

One hundred well-known proverbs are selected, each divided into two parts, each part printed on a separate card. The host has the hundred first halves, which he reads aloud; one by one. The hundred second halves are dealt to the other players, who place their hands upward upon the "Tatami," or thick mat of rich straw on which they sit. As the first half of any proverb is read the holder of the second half throws it out, or, if he sees it unnoticed among his neighbors, seizes it and gives him one of his own. The player who is first "out" wins. It is a very simple game, but it affords a great deal of amusement to the players, for the quick-sighted and keen-witted are constantly seizing the cards of their duller and slower neighbors. This leads to much laughter and good-natured teasing.

Impudence.

Rear Admiral Wilde, at a banquet given in his honor in Boston, desired to illustrate in some way a certain sort of humorous and harmless impudence that is found at its best in America.

"There was a young man," said Admiral Wilde, "and he desired to pay his addresses to a certain young lady. So, in a frank and honorable way, he called on the young lady's father, described his circumstances and prospects, and asked if he might be regarded as a suitor.

"'Well,' the father said, 'I have no objection to you. You seem to be an honest, industrious, healthy enough young fellow. I guess you can begin to pay your addresses if you want to. Understand, though, that I put out the lights at 10 o'clock.'

"'All right, sir,' said the young man, 'I'll be careful not to come around before that time.'"

Professor Wentworth and John J.

The stories told at the expense of Prof. Wentworth, commonly known as "Bull" Wentworth, and for years connected with the Phillips Exeter academy, are legion. The following, however, is one of the best:

It was the custom on opening day for each instructor to take the names of pupils of his classes.

"Now," said Prof. Wentworth on one occasion, "I want every boy to give his full name. If your name is William Henry Smith say William Henry Smith, and not W. H. Smith nor William H. Smith."

The list was nearly completed satisfactorily when the name of John Jay Brown was given. The professor's chance had come, and he roared out: "John J. Brown; John J. Brown; will any one tell me how to spell J?"

"Yes, sir," said the boy, "J-a-y," and Prof. Wentworth laughed with the rest.—Boston Herald.

Tiger Flesh in Demand.

Evidently tiger flesh is a popular article of diet with the Chinamen of the Straits. A young but full grown tiger was shot by a Malay and was brought in to Teluk Anson for the usual government reward of $25.

The skin, which was beautifully smooth and soft, was soon disposed of, and the meat was sold in town at forty cents a catty.—Penang Echo.

Yearnings.

Jest a little cradle in a wagon passin' by,
But it sort o' hurts me in my feelin's; wonder why?
We ain't had no children, Mandy Jane an' me, that's sure,
Tho' we've often wished the stork would linger at our door:
Kind o' looked an' waited till the years had passed away,
An' her brown locks an' my black ones both had turned to gray,
Went on jest believin' that our dreams 'ud all come true,
Kep' so busy hopin' th' warn't time fur feelin' blue.

'Tain't no doubt, it's lonesome settin' roun' a grim ol' house,
Jest us two ol' people, evenin's, quiet as a mouse:
Seems like that a feller'd like to have a couple of boys
Stompin' roun' the kitchen, an' a-makin' lots o' noise;
With a pair o' girls a-chatterin' in their foolish way,
Gigglin', waitin' fur ther comp'ny, prinkin' up; an' say—
Some folks worry at it, but it kind o' seems to me
That's the sort o' life our Maker meant this life to be.

When your courtin's done an' over, where's your youth to go,
When there ain't no children roun' you keepin' life aglow?
Tho' the fires o' love have smoldered, embers heat the ash
When you ketch your boy's eyes dartin' love's first lightnin' flash.
Say you're old an' getting doty, why, the sight'll start
Jest a reg'lar dancin' measure in your dim ol' heart,
An' you feel that life is sweeter when you see love's fire
Puttin' fears an keers an' doubtin's on a fun'ral pyre.

Jest a little cradle in a wagon passin' by,
Yet it brings the tear drops an' a long-regrettin' sigh;
Jest a little cradle—my, I wonder who it's fur?
Mighty happy father, him, an' happy mother, her.
Wish 'em all the blessin's that I'm ask fur fur myself,
Tho' the Lord has laid me kind o' useless on the shelf:
Hope they'll live the 'lotted time o' hearty ol' threescore,
Hope they'll fill that cradle up a dozen times, or more!

—Paul Laurence Dunbar.

Run Down In The Fog

There was fog to starboard and fog to port, fog ahead and fog astern, fog above and fog below. I should have said that there was fog to windward and fog alee, had there been air enough stirring to make those quarters possible of identification. But a dead calm brooded over the ocean, and the clammy mist of the Grand Bank blanketed everything.

Even in the bow of Harvey Hilton's dory, beyond the scalp heap of mottled cod, the fruit of half an hour's labor with hook and line, there lurked little clinging wraiths of vapor, which disappeared as you moved your head nearer, but took indistinct and evanescent form as you bent father away. In short, it was the thickest, darkest morning the fisherman had ever seen in his twenty years' experience on every bank in the North Atlantic.

To a landsman it might have seemed dangerous enough for the crew of the Moonstone at the dawn of June 24th to put forth singly into the mist. But the sturdy Gloucester men had been too thoroughly hardened by the dangers of their calling to be frightened by a little fog.

Each fisher, as he pushed off from the Moonstone, carefully noted by his dory compass the direction he was taking. Besides the compass, he had also a small horn with which to answer signals from the vessel's larger one, and to warn approaching craft of his position.

Harvey Hilton's dory had been the fourth swung out from the starboard nest; and in accordance with the directions of the "first hand" he pulled for an anchorage a half-mile off the starboard bow of the schooner.

His nearest shipmate was two hundred yards away. A mile to port lay the dory fleet from the Alice, a sister vessel, plainly visible from the Moonstone in the clear air of the day before. These were but two of the scores of craft from North Atlantic fishing ports that lay at this time within a twenty-mile circle on the lower end of the Grand Bank.

While the boats of the entire fleet were being swung overboard by the tackles on that fog-smitten June morning, twenty miles to the eastward a huge ocean greyhound, which we will call the Aldebaran of the Royal Purple Line, was rushing west toward New York, bent on establishing a record.

Thus far all had been propitious for clipping two or three hours from the fastest time in which the passage between England and America had ever been made. A fair wind astern, smooth seas and clear weather had favored the hope of all on board, and it was a great disappointment to the ship's officers on their approach to the Grand Bank to run suddenly into this gloomy wall of fog. The liner's speed was of necessity checked, but still she cut the water at a rate not far from fifteen miles an hour. Early that morning her passengers were awakened by the ominous, oft-recurring roar of the great steam siren, warning all lesser craft to beware of the ocean monster that was approaching through the semi-darkness.

At twenty minutes past four Harvey Hilton, after a quarter-hour of quick, unhesitating rowing, guided by an occasional glance at his compass, which had been placed on the thwart before him for ready consultation, took in his oars, threw over the anchor, baited his hook with a good sized clam, and dropped his heavy sinker over the side.

Not four minutes from the time his line touched the water a thirty-pound cod was flapping his tail against the bottom of the dory, and the fisherman's hook was soon on its way for another prize forty odd fathoms down. Five minutes later another handsome fish lay beside the first.

So it went for thirty minutes, as fast as he could throw out, haul in, gaff the cod over the dory's side, rebait, and throw out again. It was the best fishing he had found in many a day; and if his good luck continued, he would be able to load his boat and row in to the Moonstone long before any of his mates.

It was about five o'clock when he first heard the whistle of the Aldebaran far to the eastward, at first merely a low, hoarse rumble rolling over the surface of the sea.

Who-o-o-o-ooo! Who-o-o-o-ooo! Hilton had heard that sound so many times before during his years on the fishing banks that he ordinarily paid but little attention to it. But somehow this morning it made him feel uneasy. An unpleasant shiver ran down his spine as he remembered one foggy dawn six years back, when one of those ocean monsters had passed so close to the stern of the schooner that it had splintered her main boom. Ugh! He shrugged his shoulders at the thought, and then devoted his energies to pulling in another cod.

No one could tell just where the steamer would cross the fishing grounds, and he was as safe in one place as in another. It was as well to take the thing philosophically and keep on about his business. What likelihood that the high iron prow miles away, with the spray feathering aloft on both its sides, was pointed straight at the fifteen scanty feet now occupied by the broadside of his dory!

Nearer and nearer, louder and louder came the shriek of the siren. Who-o-o-o-ooo! Who-o-o-o-ooo! In the intervals between its discordant outbursts, faint hollow pippings from the horns of the scattered dorymen, with now and then a louder peal from the bell or crank-horn of some anchored schooner, told that the fleet was taking the alarm. All feared the headlong, irretrievable ruin that might be wrought by that merciless prow amid the fragile invisible flotillas.

The Aldebaran was now fairly upon the Bank, and rushing across it at half-speed. Additional lookouts were stationed forward to give quick warning of any mast or boat they might spy through the thick mist. Shorter and more frequent rose the waiting blasts of the steam-whistle, while the dories replied in notes that sounded low and feeble beside the metallic roaring of the huge leviathan.

Harvey Hilton's uneasiness had been increasing as the whistle grew louder. He stopped fishing suddenly, leaving a heavy cod half pulled in, and rose to his feet, vainly striving to pierce the mist in the direction of the approaching peril. He lifted his horn to his lips and threw all the strength of his lungs into one warning, appealing blast. But just before the sound reached the ears of the liner's lookouts, a blast from another quarter had caused them to signal in such a way that the great ship sheered straight toward Hilton.

The fisherman heard the rushing of the water before the stem, and knew just how it would look, even before he could see it through the fog. Thrusting the horn into his pocket, he sprang forward and seized the anchor-rope, intending to haul his dory ahead.

In an instant, however, he dropped the line, convinced of the futility of his endeavor. It was too late now to attempt to shift his position. Again he set the horn to his lips and blew with all his might. Perhaps the steamer might not touch him, after all!

Vain hope! A straight, black knife-sharp edge of steel cleft the mist asunder not a dozen yards away!

In one fleeting second Hilton saw at its base the snow-white spray-feathers rising from the bubbly foam; saw the iron plates of the swelling hull, dull salmon color below the water line and jet black above it; caught a glimpse of the white face, and blue, staring eyes of a Norse lookout, with his clustering yellow beard and blue seaman's shirt open at the neck, peering down at him over the bow twenty feet above; and then, with a hoarse, inarticulate cry, the horn still clutched in his right hand just as he had snatched it from his lips after his last despairing blast, he leaped headlong overboard as far as he could to the right!

While still in the air in the middle of his leap, he heard the splintering crash, as the steel tore through his dory. An instant later he plunged head foremost into the chill water, feeling that he would never rise alive. Then, before he could collect his thoughts, he had the sensation of being rolled and tumbled up and down along the side of a rapidly moving wall that bruised and battered him, making no more account of him than if he were merely a piece of wreckage.

Sucked in close to the vessel's side by the action of the water, thrust out again by striking against the iron wall stunned by the roar of the waves and bewildered by the rapid motion, Hilton could at first hardly comprehend what was happening. He was a plaything in the swirl of the steamer-sundered billows.

Twice while he was being swept along the steep, straight side, when his head came uppermost and his eyes were for a moment clear of the smarting brine, there came a vision of faces looking down upon him, one the red, weather-beaten countenance of an officer in a vizored cap with gold braid round it, the other the startled visage of a man in a gray soft hat.

Then Hilton was whirled suddenly feet uppermost, until he feared blindly that he was never to breathe again. Presently he found himself as suddenly out of water to his shoulders, his back to the ship's side.

The Aldebaran was nearly six hundred feet long, and at her present speed it took between twenty and thirty seconds for her entire length to pass any given point. So for that period of time Hilton was whirled and hammered along her side. Fortunately his head did not once strike the hard steel, or he would have been stunned into an insensibility that could have had but one result.

After the shock of the first surprise had passed away, the hope came to him that perhaps he might escape, after all. Then a horrible dread laid hold upon him. The steamer's screw! He did not know how many revolutions it was making a second, but he did know that if it touched his body, as he was swept out past the stern, the slightest flick of its curved blades of tempered steel would slice him in two as if he were a potato!

Could he pass it in safety, all might yet be well. If not! He was now almost under the liner's quarter, time with his face toward the stern. Fifty feet away he could see the turmoil made by the revolving blades. He heard the dull reverberation of the beaten water. He saw the liquid bosses rising above the surface, and Again he was whirled upright, this calculated how far beneath must be the blades, the sweep of which was causing that commotion.

Fainting with terror, he was borne in toward the fatal spot, and gazing into the depths with fascinated eyes imagined that he saw the flashes of light, as the knives swept round and round.

He closed his eyes, fancying that already he felt the slicing steel. Then he found himself dancing up and down like a cork in the air filled billows. He opened his eyes again.

Twenty feet overhead a round black stern was disappearing in the mist. The rushing died away as the ship sped on. Again the wailing blast of her siren set the air vibrating. More and more remote it sounded.

Hilton paddled feebly, surprised to find his arms and legs uninjured. But what hope of life was there for him now, alone in the fog in the steamer's wake! Would it not be better for him to give up and sink at once, than prolong his misery by making a vain struggle? No! he would keep afloat as long as he could.

Then an idea came to him. Tightly clutched in his right hand was the horn that he had blown just before plunging overboard from his dory. Somehow he had unconsciously retained his grip on it despite the terrible handling he had received. Was it possible that any one might be within hearing?

Lifting it to his lips, which were just above the surface, he blew it faintly again and again. A blast not far to the left answered him. It was the man whose horn had been heard by the steamer's lookout just before Hilton was run down. Again the swimmer blew, and again the other replied. Hilton shouted faintly, and was rewarded by hearing the hasty dip of oars.

Two minutes later the prow of a dory appeared through the fog, and in a short space the sinking fisherman was pulled, swooning, aboard the boat of one of his mates.—Youth's Companion.

Jollying Her.

The rich young man was making his first call.

"What induced you to call on me in preference to the other girls?" asked the beautiful maid.

"Alcohol brought me to this," replied the young man.

It seemed that she increased an inch in height.

"Sir," she flashed, "do you mean to say you had to be intoxicated before you came here?"

"Of course not. My automobile runs by alcohol."—Detroit Tribune.

BELATED MISSIVE OF LOVE.

Tender Message Waited Twenty Years for Delivery.

Although belated more than twenty years, a love letter appointing a tryst has been discovered and forwarded to the person addressed, Alonzo Birdsall, a motorman, who lives in Darby. Birdsall was born and raised near Bay City, Mich., and there he met, wooed and won his wife, who was a Miss Parkinson.

Her parents and his people occupied adjoining farms, but, owing to a temporary feud, the young people's love did not run smoothly. They courted on the sly, and, to facilitate meetings, used to leave letters for each other in the hollow of an old elm tree. One day death visited the Birdsall family, and the feud was suddenly terminated. In the excitement Miss Parkinson totally forgot a letter she had just left in the tree.

The barriers removed, the lovers married, and about ten years ago moved to Philadelphia. Last week Birdsall received a letter from his brother, which explained that in chopping down the old elm he had found a note, which he enclosed. Although weatherbeaten and discolored, the writing was legible. It ran: "John, Dear—Meet me at the willows tonight. Ellen."—Philadelphia Record.

Delicacy of the Japanese.

The Japanese have a malted preparation known as ame, which is a kind of candy or barley sugar, made by the action of barley malt on glutinous rice. Midzu ame, or liquefied ame, a syrup, forms the subject of an article by Prof. Storey and Mr. Rolfe, published in the Bulletin of Bussey Institution, Harvard University. The preparation of ame dates back many centuries, and it is interesting to compart it with most of the more modern wort. Prof. Storey also describes some experiments made with popcorn, which bear out the opinions of previous investigators that popping is caused by bursting of the starch grains.

LIVERYMAN DUPED.

A Stranger Traded Horses for Him to a Supposed Centre County Man.

D. W. Cutchall, the liveryman at Petersburg, has in his possession an old and almost worthless horse instead of a good one he hired to a stranger a few days ago.

Saturday morning, 10th instant, a stranger came to Petersburg and hired a buggy and two horses, stating that he wished to drive to Alexandria and thence to Huntingdon. He did not return that night, and in fact, not at all. The first intimation that Mr. Cutchall had of the missing team was a telegram from Birmingham the Sunday forenoon following, from the railroad agent at that place stating that an anonymous note had been shoved under the station door to the effect that Mr. Cutchall's team had been tied at a certain place on the streets of Birmingham.

On arriving at that place Mr. Cutchall found that an old, jaded horse had been substituted for one of his good horses. Rumor has it that the strange man traded horses with a man from Centre county, receiving the old horse and $35 in money.

Frank Linsky is supposed to be the name of the man who hired the team and he was but a few months out of jail for breaking into freight cars at Altoona about three years ago.

DEATHS.

HARRY FISHBURN.

After suffering for about two years from a cancerous growth on the lower lip, Harry Fishburn succumbed to the ravishes of the disease on Tuesday night, at the home of his parents, near Bellefonte. Interment will take place at Shilo cemetery, this (Thursday) morning, Rev. Daniel Gress, of the Centre Hall Reformed church, officiating.

The deceasrd was formerly a resident of Potter Mills, where he was engaged as a blacksmith. His age was about thirty-five years. He leaves a widow, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Stump, of near Millheim, and four children to mourn his loss.

JOHN BECHTEL.

At the advanced age of seventy-two years the death of John Bechtel occurred at the home of Solomon Lingle, south of Centre Hall, Saturday morning. Interment was made at Tusseyville Monday morning, Rev. Daniel Gress officiating. The deceased was unmarried, and was a Potter township charge.

DEATH OF AN INFANT.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Glasgow, Jr., of near Tusseyville, are mourning the death of their infant son, aged five weeks. Death claimed the little one Tuesday morning. Interment will be made to-day (Thursday) at Tusseyville, Rev. Daniel Gress officiating.

D. K. Keller sold the last lot of his fat steers to Lock Haven butchers. They were in fine condition, and considering their age, were exceptionally large.

Mrs. William Horner, of near Centre Hall, one of the ladies who is always fearful that the Reporter is over due, was a caller Wednesday, to pay her subscription for the year.

Miss Lila Harper, of Tyrone, is a guest at the home of Alfred Durst, in Centre Hall. She will spend some time visiting relatives and friends in Centre county.

Messrs. J. B. Baumgardner and George Haas are canvassing Centre Hall and vicinity for the sale of stereoscopes and stereoscopic views. These young men are students at Pennsylvania College, and are endeavoring to earn funds to enable them to continue their studies in that institution. Whatever patronage given them will be thoroughly appreciated.

Jonas Swabb, of Thompsontown, Juniata county, beginning of this week made a visit to Centre Hall to see his brother and sisters—Henry Swabb, Mrs Catharine Durst and Mrs. Daniel Wian. He is also a brother of George Swabb, of Linden Hall. This Juniata gentleman has attained the age of eighty-nine years, all of which time was spent in the township of his birth, which is Walker. He is a Democrat in principle, and since he has reached voting age, has missed the general election but twice, and each vote was cast in the same township. He learned stone masoning when a young man, which he followed until age interferred. Mr. Swabb has the good fortune to have at this time the full use of his mental powers, and enjoys a chat as well as a man in the prime of life.

Jacob Slack, of Bloomington, Illinois, recently returned from a three weeks visit to Colorado. Mr. Slack is a brother of Assistant Postmaster C. W. Slack, of this place, and is an engineer on the Chicago and Alton Railroad.

State Senator E. A. Irvin, of Curwensville, Clearfield county, is reported to be seriously ill at Atlantic City. Senator Irvin, who was colonel of the famous Pennsylvania Bucktails during the rebellion, is no longer a young man, and his friends are anxious about his present condition.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free. Also, pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Cuban Diarrhoea.

U. S. soldiers who served in Cuba during the Spanish war know what this disease is, and that ordinary remedies have little more effect than so much water. Cuban diarrhoea is almost as severe and dangerous as a mild attack of cholera. There is one remedy, however, that can always be depended upon as will be seen by the following certificate from Mrs. Minnie Jacobs, of Houston, Texas: "I hereby certify that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured my husband of a severe attack of Cuban diarrhoea, which he brought home from Cuba. We had several doctors but they did him no good. One bottle of this remedy cured him, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine." For sale by C. W. Swartz, Tusseyville; F. A. Carson, Potters Mills.

CAST YOUR BREAD UPON THE WATER.

A Centre Hall Lady Handsomely Rewarded for Her Generosity.

The above scriptural passage was beautifully illustrated in 1894 by the family of George Floray, of Centre Hall, who responded to an appeal from farmers in Nebraska for help during the threatened famine in that state. The Floray family at that time consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Floray and daughter, Miss Gertrude, (the father died since) and were in quite moderate circumstances, depending entirely upon their own labor for support. Nevertheless they were large hearted, and while others gave of their abundance, the Florays gave out of a store barely sufficient for their own needs.

Among other things handed over to the soliciting committee by the Florays was a hand-made quilt that represented many days of tedious labor. It was not beyond the generosity of the mother to take from her own bed a quilt and give it to the famine-stricken Nebraskans. Her name and address were attached, and the quilt, with many other articles, were forwarded to the west.

Time went on, and finally a note was received from W. W. Grahm, Ragan, Nebraska, thanking the Floray's for their great kindness in remembering the sufferers in Nebraska, at the same time giving an account of their reverses. Since then the families have been exchanging friendly missives. The Nebraskan family prospered, recovered from their reverses.

The other day the climax came—Mrs. Floray was the recipient of a postoffice money order, the largest she ever received, and with it a note from the Grahms again expressing their gratitude for help when in the greatest distress of their lives.

Mrs. Floray is declining in years, she has no means of earning a livelihood. She is now enjoying the fruits of "casting bread upon the waters."

DEATHS.

LLOYD H. LAWALL.

Lloyd H. Lawall died at his home in Allegheny, Saturday morning, 17th inst. In March of this year he was stricken with Bright's disease in its worst form. Being a young man, only thirty-six years of age, he fought bravely for life, and was conscious until the end came. He suffered very much during the last month of his illness.

In 1889 Mr. Lawall was married to Miss Tammie M. Evans, of Williamsport, formerly of Potters Mills.

Mr. Lawall had many friends and acquaintances in Penns Valley, as his vacation days were spent along the streams in Potters Mills and vicinity. He was a member of the firm of Lawall & Evans, gents' furnishers, Allegheny.

MISS BESSIE LINGLE.

Miss Bessie Lingle, the eldest daughter of W. C. and Amelia Lingle, of Patton, died Thursday in a Sanitarium in Philadelphia, where she had gone for special treatment. She was surrounded by the surviving members of her family when the final summons came. The remains were brought to Bellefonte Friday morning and taken to the home of her uncle, Postmaster W. W. Montgomery. Interment was made in Bellefonte Saturday.

MRS. EVA ZETTLE.

Mrs. Eva Zettle died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Gray, in Milton, Monday evening, at the advanced age of about seventy-six years. Interment will take place in Georges Valley to-day (Thursday.)

The deceased was a widow of Emanuel Zettle, and is survived by four children—Mrs. John Gray, Milton; Andrew Zettle, Penn Hall; Jerry and Roland Zettle, Spring Mills.

Sober.

C. K. Sober, of Lewisburg, was a caller at the home of U. G. Auman Saturday.

L. P. Smith's saw mill was burned down one night last week.

IN ALTOONA.

What Penns Valley People Are Doing in the Busy Railroad Town.

Penns Valley is well represented in Altoona, the busy railroad town. Two days' stay at that point is all that is needed to learn that if this beautiful, fertile valley were obliged to withdraw its sons from Altoona's population, the cogs of industry that continually whirl would at least be momentarily checked.

Among others whom the writer came in contact was John O. Scholl, one of the superintendents at the city electric light works. Mr. Scholl began work in Altoona in a humbler position than he now holds, but by faithfully serving his employes he soon was advanced. He is not only an earner, but managed to accumulate cash, and now owns a home in a new section of the town—a home that any young man could be proud of.

James P. Herring is a well-known figure in Altoona. He has been a resident of that town for many years, being possibly the first who from this immediate vicinity located there. He has been with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company all these years.

Among the younger men who are giving their brains and muscle to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company are John Breon, Jr. Wm. H. Breon, A. B. Homan, Burchard Musser, Lloyd Smith, Andrew Rishel, Harry Decker, S. Edwin Royer, J. Edgar Maitz, Wm. Harshbager, R. H. Goodhart, Andrew Kreamer, George E. Meyer, Alfred Osman, John F. Zeigler, all of whom it may be said are holding good positions

Howard Homan, contractor and builder, lives as cosily as a railroad president would wish to. He is making good money at his trade—busy every day.

Henry Rearick, who learned blacksmithing with Charles Bollinger, in this place, is one of the mechanics to receive the higher wages. His surplus he is now investing in real estate in Juniata Park, a section of country now being boomed by the West Juniata Realty Company.

In proportion, a bull frog couldn't half puff up to the size of Morris A. Burkholder, not because he holds a better place than others from this section, but because he, just recently, heard a sound from a female infant that he translated "papa."

Edward Wolf has been in Altoona for a good many years, and the Reporter readers will regret to learn that he has been ill of a disease of dropsical nature. At present he is mending.

Grover C. Gentzle is one of the clerks in the electrical store room. He is one of the younger men and is taking a course in a correspondence school to fit him for a more responsible position.

Alvin S. Meyer is one of the many lumber inspectors employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. He is sent from one point to the other along its extensive system to put his mark of approval on lumber purchased previously and delivered ready for shipment.

Ralph C. Boozer, a graduate of the Williamson Free School of Mechanical Arts, Electrical Engineering Depar ment, was one of the many young men similarly qualified to install the electrical appliances in the largest foundry in the world, and since has been retained at the Pennsy shops.

Morris Breon, a plumber, is employed regularly by George Stone, a well established man in his business, and is receiving good pay for his labor.

Claude K. Stahl is clerking in a grocery store, and at the same time he is keeping a watch on a place to his liking in the shops.

Sanford Miller, formerly a printer, is now in the insurance business. And but for the time he spends with his sweetheart in Tyrone, is always hustling for a man willing to take a risk.

Surprised.

Monday evening about sixty relatives, friends and neighbors met at the home of G. A. Hettinger, on J. R. Bible's farm, Sprucetown, to surprise Mr. Hettinger and celebrate his thirtieth birthday.

The guests assembled about nine o'clock while Mr. Hettinger accompanied his mother, brother and sister to Spring Mills. Upon returning and entering the house he was much surprised at the reception given him, but took it all good naturedly.

After the excitement had worn away the guests were treated to ice cream and cake, to which all did ample justice.

Mr. Hettinger received numerous presents, and no doubt this birthday will long be remembered by him, as well as by those present.

Miss Mary Kennedy, daughter of J. Q. A. Kennedy, attended commencement exercises at Lock Haven Normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Arney Lee, of Pittsburg, are in Centre Hall to spend their vacation with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs John T. Lee.

J. W. Mitterling returned from Philadelphia Wednesday morning, after having made sale of a car load of milch cows shipped to near that point.

Mrs. G. M. Boal, of Centre Hall, and Mrs. W. Gross Mingle, of Bellefonte, are in Nelson, Tioga county, on a visit to Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Park, the latter being a daughter of Mrs. Boal's.

Mrs. L. Rhone and daughter, Miss May, both of whom have been ill for some time at their home in Centre Hall, were reported on Wednesday as not being quite as well as on the day previous.

Mifflinburg Times: Robert Stover came down from Coburn last week to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Kate Charles. Saturday his mother came down and spent a few days in her native town.

Hugh B. Fiedler's Star Magazine (Williamsport, Pa,) for July is now out and it is pronounced on all sides as one of the finest summer outing publications ever issued from Central Pennsylvania.

Prof. C. R. Neff, principal of the Millheim High School, since the close of the schools, is giving a portion of his time to overseeing the Neff farm, above Old Fort, owned by him and his brother, Chas. D. Neff.

Misses Marion and Ella Fischer, daughters of Rev. W. E. Fischer, D. D, of Shamokin, together with several other young ladies of the same place, will come to Centre Hall for their summer vacation. They will stop at the hotel.

Miss Lizzie Zeigler, of Centre Hall, and A. E. Zeigler, of Linden Hall, went to Lewisburg Tuesday to be present at the graduating exercises at Bucknell University, from which institution Irvin W. Zeigler, a brother, graduated.

Miss Maude Sechrist, who recently returned from York, attended the commencement exercises at Central State Normal School, Lock Haven, of which institution she is a graduate. Since then Miss Sechrist has been teaching in Columbia county, near Berwick.

Cleveland Mitterling is carrying a black eye, the result of an accident at the derrick. One of the workmen was using a hand hammer, when it slipped from his hand, striking young Mitterling above the eye. The flesh was cut to the bone, causing the blood to flow freely.

George Torrence, wife and sister, of Punxsutawney, last week were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Smith, in this place, Mrs. Torrence is a nephew of Mr. Smith's. Before coming here they attended the commencement at State, where a son of Mr. and Mrs. Torrence graduated.

Mrs. S. R. Kamp and daughter, Miss Edna, at present are at the home of Hon. Leonard Rhone, and during the illness of Mrs Rhone Mrs. Kamp is assisting in caring for her. Miss Edna is a student at Central State Norman School, Lock Haven, and will remain here for a few week.

James A. Keller, D. K. Keller and family, Rev. John H. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Fisher and daughter are camping along the railroad in the vicinity of Paddy Mountain tunnel, having gone there Wednesday. They will entertain a number of their friends while in camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Durst and grandson, of Boalsburg, were in town Tuesday. Mr. Durst was a caller at this office, and in speaking of the great damage done to corn by cut worms, he suggested that if a three year rotation were adopted the cut worm would do little harm. He speaks from experience.

Copper and Beef acquire a new and still more startling meaning in the July Everybody's. The greater part of their story has so far been untold, and a generous slice of it—a pithy, dramatic, historically significant slice—has been inserted, for the benefit of a continent of vitally concerned readers, in this single number of a magazine.

Mrs. J. H. Meyer, of Boalsburg, writes the Reporter that she greatly enjoys reading the 1871 news published each week in this paper, and adds that the night before Brisbin's store, at Potters Mills, was robbed, the same parties cleaned their smoke house of meat. She also gives the names of the parties who committed the deed. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer, from 1868 to 1875 lived on the Van Valzah farm, west of Centre Hall, and it was there that the incident took place.

SADIE ROBINSON.

Pretty Girl Suffered From Nervousness and Pelvic Catarrh---Found Quick Relief in a Few Days.

NERVOUSNESS AND WEAKNESS CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Miss Sadie Robinson, 4 Rand street, Malden, Mass., writes:

"Peruna was recommended to me about a year ago as an excellent remedy for the troubles peculiar to our sex, and as I found that all that was said of this medicine was true, I am pleased to endorse it.

"I began to use it about seven months ago for weakness and nervousness, caused from overwork and sleeplessness, and found that in a few days I began to grow strong, my appetite increased and I began to sleep better, consequently my nervousness passed away and the weakness in the pelvic organs soon disappeared and I have been well and strong ever since."

Lesson of Memorial Day.

It is well that on one day in the year the high example of the Union soldier should be held up before our people. Love of country consists in service rather than in profession. Public good must ever be preferred to private good. And surely when so many Americans were willing to give all that they had for the country, we of to-day ought at least to be willing to forego mere personal advantage when it can only be won at the expense of the land which we all love. This is the lesson of Memorial day, and it is one that we greatly need to learn.

Tame Ruffled Grouse.

Out of two broods of ruffled grouse hatched last spring by Prof. Hodge of Worcester, Mass., four have wintered and are apparently healthy birds, in spite of the fact that they were raised in captivity. They are tame and have the run of the Hodge place like hens. They like all kinds of fruit and berries, and it is hoped that they will mate and a second generation of tame "partridges" be raised.

Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Uterine Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous?

How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly;" or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the ovaries and between the shoulders. Loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia. A tendency to cry at the least provocation. All this points to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night.

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me.

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

PAID PENALTY FOR HASTE.

Messenger Boy's Speed Resulted in Spectacular Tumble.

A district messenger boy emerged from a big office building on Nassau street and to the amazement of passersby, began to run. He had not gone far when his foot caught in some obstruction and he fell. It was not the ordinary fall. It was a picturesque, acrobatic performance. He landed on his stomach with hands and legs outstretched.

It had just stopped raining and the asphalt was slippery. In addition there is quite a down grade at Cedar street, where the sudden drop of mercury took place. So when he struck the roadway he kept on going tobogan fashion, for a foot or two, his hands and feet being used as brakes.

When the headway finally was checked, the messenger boy arose, slowly and sadly. His once natty blue uniform was a finished study black from collar to the ends of his trousers. There was some bark off his hands and a gash in one knee of his trousers seemed to open its dumb mouth to protest against such treatment.

"That's what I get fer runnin'," said the boy sadly, as he entered a convenient hallway to cleanse himself with a "latest edition" handed to him by a sympathetic observer.

Making the Garden Pay.

"This garden has a southeast exposure," said Uncle Bob, "which is the best. I shall have all of the rows of vegetables running north and south so that they will get the full benefit of the sun. I am going to divide it with a path running each way for convenience, and I shall cultivate entirely with hand tools. I rely particularly upon my combined double and single wheel hoe, hill and drill seeder, which saves me many an hour of back-breaking, hard and uncomfortable work during the summer.

"Lettuce and radishes may be sowed in many odd corners of the garden, without interfering with other crops. Oftentimes crops fail to come up in various places in the garden, and these vacancies may be filled with beets, carrots and turnips. The latter may be planted as late as the first of September, and carrots up to the first of August. My early lettuce is followed by cabbages or excelsior peas. I often put turnips in the ground which has just grown a crop of peas. You will be able to find pretty nearly all kinds of common vegetables in this garden. I don't always succeed with everything, and if I had only a very small garden, I should confine myself, I think, to a smaller list."—Suburban Life.

Hid His Money in the Oven.

Chief Burgess John Doll of Pine Grove, Pa., before going to the circus, put all his portable wealth, $1,000 in currency, in a cigar box and deposited in in the oven of his cold stove, which he believed would be out of commission surely till the Sunday baking should be done. But Mrs. Doll concluded to get the Sunday baking out of the way before her husband's return. So she heated up the kitchen stove, piping hot. When she thought it about right she opened the oven door, only to find inside the smoking ashes of a cigar box and something that looked suspiciously like "money to burn." It fairly crumbled as she touched it, but she got it out of the oven and smothered the remaining flames as best she could.

The Burgess will ask Uncle Sam to put on his best specs and see if he can't decipher enough of the ashes currency to redeem it, whole or in part.

FOOD IN SERMONS.

Feed the Domicile Right and the Sermons Are Brilliant.

A conscientious, hard-working and eminently successful clergyman writes: "I am glad to bear testimony to the pleasure and increased measure of efficiency and health that have come to me from adopting Grape-Nuts food as one of my articles of diet.

"For several years I was much distressed during the early part of each day by indigestion. My breakfast, usually consisting of oatmeal, milk and eggs, seemed to turn sour and failed to digest. After dinner the headache and other symptoms following the breakfast would wear away, only to return, however, next morning.

"Having heard of Grape-Nuts food, I finally concluded to give it a fair trial. I quit the use of oatmeal and eggs, and made my breakfasts of Grape-Nuts, cream, toast and Postum. The result was surprising in improved health and total absence of the distress that had, for so long a time, followed the morning meal. My digestion became once more satisfactory, the headaches ceased, and the old feeling of energy returned. Since that time, four years ago, I have always had Grape-Nuts food on my breakfast table.

"I was delighted to find also, that whereas before I began to use Grape-Nuts food I was quite nervous and became easily wearied in the work of preparing sermons and in study, a marked improvement in this respect resulted from the change in my diet. I am convinced that Grape-Nuts food produced this result and helped me to a sturdy condition of mental and physical strength.

"I have known several persons who were formerly troubled as I was, and who have been helped as I have been, by the use of Grape-Nuts food, on my recommendation, among whom may be mentioned the Rev. ——, now a missionary to China." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

FARM AND GARDEN

CROSS-BREEDING SHEEP.

George F. Thompson of the Department of Agriculture in a recent interview refers to the matter of cross-breeding encouraged by the Department, for the purpose of producing a breed more fully developed for fleece and mutton combined. The best sheep breeders look upon such attempts as mistakes, just as cattle-breeders know that cross-breeding as a rule leads to disaster. Here is what Mr. Thompson says on the subject:

"During the early days in America sheep were bred primarily for the wool, and during recent years we have been importing annually in addition from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 worth of wool. But the wool industry in this country has come to the point where it frequently does not pay to raise the sheep for its fleece alone. There has, therefore, been an increasing effort to get a good combination breed that would live in large flocks on the range, furnish a good fleece, and at the same time be a good mutton sheep. This has been a work of great difficulty, and is by no means yet accomplished. The Iowa experiment station has had Dr. J. W. Kenedy working on the breeding problem for several years, experimenting with Merinos for wool, and Southdowns and Shropshires for mutton, with a number of other breeds. But up to date the experiments have not been productive of any new fixed breeds which would have the desired characteristics and transmit them unchanged to their progeny. The result is that the farmers of the east are still confining themselves to the English broods of downs and shires, which are great meat producers, while the western ranch depends largely on the old Mexican sheep which is a descendant of the fine merinos imported by the Spaniards, but which has developed characteristics of its own, and is in a great many respects an ideal sheep for the range. The fleece of the Mexican is made finer and improved by the introduction of pure merino rams on the range, and when the strain of merino begins to show too much, making a weaker and more delicate sheep, with very fine silky wool, the breed is strengthened by the introduction of some coarser wool sheep like the Oxfords. So the balance is maintained.

This work has now been going on for many years, and the breeding is likely to continue along the same lines till the ideal wool-mutton is found. This may occupy a long time, but there has been so much done in recent years in the hybridizing of plants and animals that it would seem anything might be expected to develop in the cross-bred line at any time."—Indiana Farmer.

TO BEAUTIFY THE FARM.

The lawn could be started the first year, and a few trees planted as desired about the house and at the driveway entrance, with perhaps sufficient properly grouped in intermediate positions to relieve any bareness that might exist. The next season shrubbery borders and groups might be planted with additional trees on the lawn for ornamental purposes. The flower garden need not follow till later. Meanwhile, the pleasure accompanying developments would be going on with always some little thing to look forward to.

Plant trees and shrubs that have permanent value and not too ordinary. Avoid the cheap, quick-growing trees which are invariably less satisfactory in the end and are short-lived. I will only name the oaks as being especially worthy trees, and ones that will never bring regret. A few really rare plants will increase the interest in your place wonderfully. Such beautiful things as the Yellow Wood, Gingko, Sophora and Japanese Varnish tree are not difficult to obtain, yet they are not common.

An unused piece of swampy ground could be made beautiful by planting in it some flags and Japanese Iris, Mallows, Lythrums, Coreopsis, and even many swamp-loving shrubs like the common elderberry, White Fringe and Swamp Magnolia. The very much improved by a clinging vine. The fence along the front of your property could have a few vines walls of your house would likely be placed at some of the posts.—S. Mendelson Meehan, in Massachusetts Ploughman.

FAILURES IN BREEDING HORSES.

Failures of course must occur in any business when careful attention to details are not given. In horse breeding the largest things to study are the demands of the market. Mr. G. M. Rommel, of the Department of Agriculture, says to stand at the horse auction market and note the horses that do not sell for prices to cover breeding and growing them. He says that the reason is that in a great majority of cases trotting blood predominates, if any breeding at all is noticeable. Ask the dealer what is the breeding, if any, of most of the large numbers of unclassified horses on the market, his answer will be: "Trotting and coach blood." This is not because draft blood is more valuable, or that the blood of the light breeds is not wanted, for the great cry of the market at present is that good drivers and saddlers are extremely scarce. It is because performance and style are much more difficult to acquire in breeding than size and weight. The high-class roadster, coacher or saddler is by far the most difficult horse to produce that the market calls for. In addition to careful plans of breeding and high individual excellence in the resulting progeny, a course of handling, mannering and training must be pursued before the horse will figure as a really marketable animal. These facts must be thoroughly understood if a man would breed light horses for market.—Indiana Farmer.

TESTING COWS.

The chief value of making tests of milk, and keeping records both of the quantity and quality, is the information afforded as to whether or not the cows are paying for their keep. That testing requires the expenditure of a little time is no argument against its adoption. In fact, that the time spent in making the tests may be well repaid is illustrated by the results obtained in testing the herd of cows at the Connecticut Station. The herd consisted of twenty cows, and in 1899 it was decided to test them. At the close of the year it was found that three of the cows by no means paid for their keep, the loss being $12.36 $12.08, and $3.60 respectively. If the above three cows had been dispensed with at the beginning of the year the total profits of the herd would have been greater, and the care and room of the cows would have been saved. Some persons say they cannot afford to sell their poor cows, as good ones cost so much, but they can hardly expect to purchase good animals for the price obtained for their non-paying ones. In any case, a man cannot afford to keep cows which are in debt at the end of the year, and if he cannot afford to clear out the non-payers and replace them with an equal number of profitable individuals, let him get rid of them and keep to smaller number of the desirable class. In the case of the Connecticut herd, by selling out the moderate animals and replacing them with better class stock, the average profit was raised from $12 39 in 1889 to $35.93 in 1903.—American Cultivator.

WHITEWASH FOR OUTSIDE WORK.

A good durable whitewash is made as follows: Take ½ bushel of freshly burnt lime, slake it with boiling water; cover it during the process, to keep in the steam. Strain the liquid through a fine sieve, and add to it 7 pounds of salt previously well dissolved in warm water; 3 pounds of ground rice boiled to a thin paste and stirred in boiling hot; ½ pound powdered Spanish whiting; 1 pound clean glue, which has been previously dissolved by soaking it well, and then hanging it over a slow fire in a small kettle, within a large one filled with water. Add 5 gallons of hot water to the mixture, stir it well, and let it stand a few days covered from dirt. It must be put on quite hot. For this purpose it can be kept in a kettle on a portable furnace. About 1 pint of his mixture will cover a square yard.—Scientific American.

"ENSILAGE FLAVOR" IN BUTTER.

Evidence is coming in, putting to shame the claim of commission men and condensing factories that ensilage is injurious in butter-making and for condensing purposes. At the Vermont dairy meeting, an "expert" read a paper taking strong ground against feeding ensilage, stating that fine butter could not be made from it. After he scored the butter a canvass of the winners showed that the highest scoring butter in every class was made from silage-fed cows. The same authority says: "An expert from Boston in scoring the butter at a Maine State dairy in flavor, calling it 'ensilage flavor.'" Upon questioning those who made the butter, it was found that not in a single case were the cows silage-fed. When confronted with this fact the expert said he knew nothing about feeding but did know that the flavor noted was what the market called "ensilage flavor."—"Give a dog a bad name, etc."—Jersey Bulletin.

Vanity and Elevators.

The building inspector's office is opposed to the mirror-lined elevators of the city, but no action has been taken for the removal of the mirrors, although the new code forbids the use of looking glasses in elevator cage construction.

Deputy Building Inspector Fongee believes many elevator accidents are attributable to the looking glasses.

"They are usually placed at such an angle that a woman stepping up to one blocks the passageway," said he. "Often she will forget that a portion of her skirt protrudes beyond the grating, and accidents occur in this way. Not only women but men are attracted by mirrors and are inclined to grow forgetful of personal safety."—Cleveland Despatch to Chicago Tribune.

By a recent census the population of Rome, former mistress of the world, is 506,840.

This year Tasmania will export 500,000 bushel cases of apples.

WOMAN'S WORLD

SHORT SKIRT AND ELBOW SLEEVE.

Widely varying are the styles for frocks; and just as various as the styles are the materials in which those sames modes are to be made up, says the Newark Advertiser.

A glance backward at what the dressmakers were preparing this time last year shows what a revolution of fashion has been going on right before our eyes, and one which some of us have hardly realized even if we have noticed it.

First of all the sleeves—for these are really the points which date a frock and a photograph unerringly. Last year's unwielding wrist puff has vanished, a thing for which one is or ought to be devoutly thankful. The newest thing in arm coverings are smartest when they are shortest; the more abbreviated their career the better style they are.

Butterfly sleeves are among the latest caprices of fashion. They are just full puffs deeply shirred or plaited into the armsize, with a lengthwise shirring done over featherbone cords right on the center of the forearm, and little loops of this same cording tacked to the lining to hold out the material in butterfly shape. Needless to add that this sleeve ends above the elbow, and a perfect cascade of lace or mousseline or chiffon frills wends its foamy way just as far down the arm as may be becoming.

A delightful style for the short-sleeved frock or blouse—one especially suited to the organdies, dotted Swiss, batiste, and even to the crepe de chine frocks that are so dressy in even their simpliest appearance—is the ombrelle sleeve that is entirely covered with ruffles either of lace of the material itself, or fashioned from plisse chiffon frills, each with an edge of Valenciennes whipped on. If it is to hang right, the ruffles must overlap each other.

The cleverly dressed Parisienne is still clinging determinedly to that smart little blouse effect which goes so far to atone for many deficiencies of figure. On this side of the Atlantic, where is must be confessed we are far more fickle in matters of fashion than they are in France, where the modes are made, this same little blouse effect has been declared passe, but like so many other features of the passing styles, it is, doubtless, only dropped for awhile, to be resmued again with even more fervor than at first.

FABRICS FAVORED BY FASHION.

The pongees are more in evidence as the season advances, and though they have no such vogue as taffeta, they are the material employed in a goodly number of the smart silk street frocks.

Panama has taken away some of the favor usually accorded to mohair, because it is newer and has the same qualities of lightness and invulnerability to dust; but the manufacturers have introduced so many new effects in mohair and made it so much softer than of old that they have given it a new lease of popularity.

The invisible checks in one tone and the herringbone designs are successful, and there are shot effects which have found ready sale, particularly in the light colors. The checked mohair in white and delicate tints have sold fairly well, too, as have the same designs in voile, and there is a mohair gauze which in light shades might make a most practical and dainty seashore frock.

The checked voiles in light blue and white, lilac and white, beige and white, etc., are greatly fancied in Paris for very simple designed morning frocks of the shirtwaist or loose bolero and plaited skirt persuasion, and nothing could be more economic for a summer morning walking dress than one of these dainty yet serviceable stuffs, made with short loose sleeves, slashed up the outside and untrimmed save for a flat collar of antique embroidered batiste and lace.

A sheer lingeries blouse must be worn with the costume and a soft leather belt of the color appearing in the check. The voile is delightfully cool and wears well, and though in the light colors it sells more easily than in darker shades its surface shake off dust very well, and it cleanses perfectly when it really is soiled.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

POSE AND POISE.

Figure is one thing, remember, and carriage another. You may have a good figure without a good carriage and vice versa. Some one has called carriage the technique of the figure. See to it that your form acquires that technique.

An odd compliment came to my ears the other day. "That girl has the best figure I ever saw for a girl who hasn't any," remarked a shrewd woman of the world. The bull sounded a droll one, but upon a glance at the young lady in question it was evident what she meant. The poor girl was known to be in the early stages of consumption, and already she was sadly thin, and there was a bright spot on each cheek a sorry sight for those who could read the warning. But she had not succumbed to the weakness and weariness that the disease brought on. She carried herself like a little princess head up, shoulders back, every muscle of her body apparently full of elasticity. Her figure was really miserable, and yet she seemed at first glance to be well built.

A rounded form you must have if you would have ideal beauty; but all the curves and correct lines that golf, bowling and the gymnasium can give you will be worthless, so far as personal appearance goes if you do not throw forward the chest that you have developed and throw back the shoulders that have been losing their angles. Many a normally formed woman looks thin because she allows her chest to cave in, or stout because she has a protruding abdomen. The reducing or building up of flesh and muscle takes a long time and hard work in some cases, but the learning of pose and poise is simple enough once you set about it with a right good will. There is no reason for putting it off until the figure is perfect; have at least one beauty if you are obliged to wait awhile for the other.

THE KAISER AND THE CHILDREN.

A pleasant little story is told of the German emperor in the Housekeeper. Recently the kaiser and kaiserin visited Saabrucken to unveil a statue in that town, their little daughter, Princess Louise, being left in the meantime in the royal car at the railway station. A beautiful bouquet of flowers had been brought for presentation to the little princess by three small girls, who looked very disappointed at the absence of the little Louise. The kaiserin, who noticed it, at once ordered that the children should be driven to the railway station to deliver their present. They found the Princess at supper, and one of the children described how she had spilled some egg and cocoa on her white frock. She was very friendly and pleased, and talked as though she had known them "ever so long."

"The empress, too," the girl relates, "was very kind to us at once, and said, 'Little girls, when you come to Berlin you must really and truly come to see us. Promise me that you will come.' And the little princess also said we must come. The emperor shook hands with us, and when he squeezed my hand a bit I squeezed back, and he laughed and put his other hand on top of it. Then both the emperor and empress kissed us and the emperor said: 'Well, little girls, I think my daughter must make you a pretty present in return for your beautiful flowers.' When he had left, and stood on the platform watching the train move off, the emperor and empress and the princess looked out, nodding and waving good-bye till the train disappeared.

NEW WAY TO WIRE A HAT.

Are you wiring a hat?

And can you match it?

No? Well, here's how. One takes it for granted that the chapeau is of yellow colored straw of that delicately golden, glimmery shade which simply can not be matched in any of the straw braids. And in most instances the wire of the straw hat for midsummer will be hidden by a strip of straw to match. This difficulty is doubly insurmountable when one desires something for a hat purchased abroad and quite unlike anything to be had here.

All there's to do is to purchase an eighth of a yard of cloth of gold, or gold tissue, as some call it. This strip is then cut into four or even five strps. One edge of it is bent under slightly to keep it from fraying, and then the white silk wire is wound with the glistening material. This will be enough for an ordinary-sized hat.

It doesn't look at all loud or "tinselly" and will prove a boon to one who has hunted in vain for something to conceal the wire. In silver it would do admirably for gray hats, the small roll of metal tissue shading from gun-metal to shimmery silver.

Velvet, of course, may be used, but it is heavy for midsummer, while silk is nothing so effective. For many other colors tulle, exactly to match, forms the most effective inoffensive wire covering.—Indianapolis News.

FASHION HINTS.

Tiny rosebuds, made of Brussels lace, trim the yoke of an exquisite French blouse, and, in some way harmonize perfectly with the Valenciennes lace that outlines the yoke.

Coat collar and cuff sets are having a furore—every other girl is wearing them. But there are sets and sets—the exquisitely shaped, exquisitely embroidered ones looking vastly out of the class of the plain linen ones.

Some of the collar and cuff sets are really lingerie sets and are meant to be worn with linen instead of cloth suits.

A rose, set in the center of tight, full cluster of heliotrope or forget-me-nots, makes a bit of trimming for the side of those tiny toques that is distinctly different.

Most of the cloth dresses seen of tailor-made styles, are made very tight over the hips.

Jacob Fritz, aged 60 years, who was accidentally shot by William Gloss at the Avon Gun Club grounds, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lebanon. Gloss, who was seixed with nervous prostration at the time of the accident, suffered a relapse upon hearing of the death of Fritz and is in a serious condition.

While assisting in placing a large log in position at a mill dam at Meckville, Cyrus Gerhart, aged 50 years, of that place, fell into the water and was drowned.

The audit in the estate of the late Edmund Kruzensky, Norristown, whose brother's arm established the date of his marriage, ended by a settlement in which the property was divided between his wife and mother.

The taxpayers of Bristol Township at a special election voted 225 against 104 for bonding the township to the extent of $50,000 for road improvement.

Penrose Weidman and Raymond Freyburger, two 12-year-old boys of Birdsboro, were killed by being struck by an express train on the Reading Railway. The lads, with a half dozen others, were returning from a swim in the Schuylkill River and the two boys were standing on the down track watching a passing freight train when the express train struck them.

Sheriff Derr, of Carlisle, appointed ex-Deputy Sheriff Goodyear and John Glass as death watches for David Spahr, the condemned murderer of his wife, and asked the Court by petition to ratify the appointment. Judge Sadler stated that he fails to find acts of Assembly conferring the authority on the Sheriff to appoint death watches, and therefore refuses to confirm the Sheriff's appointments.

While at work in the Philadelphia & Reading car shops at Schuylkill Haven John Dalton was overcome by heat and died a few moments later.

COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

"Although trade reports are still irregular and in many cities below expectations, there has been improvement in response to higher temperature and less rain. Manufacturing activity is fully maintained in textile fabrics, and there is an enormous output of iron and steel, despite some reduction from last month's record-breaking rate of production. Building operations are large and materials in excellent demand. Foreign commerce for the past week at this port shows a splendid gain, compared with 1904, imports increasing $3,137,944 and exports gaining $1,470,305. All returns for May make favorable comparisons with the same month last year, railway earnings increasing 8 per cent., while bank earnings rose 31.3 per cent.

"Textile manufacturers are in a strong position, buyers gradually appreciating the changed situation. There is little speculative buying, but more disposition to provide for future requirements. Prices are very firm. Further weakness has developed in packed hides, the only supporting factor being the light supply of cowhides that are sought by tanners of upper leather. Country hides are in a relatively better position, and South American dry hides are firmer here than in Europe. Supplementary fall contracts are still arriving at New England footwear factories from salesmen in the West, and sample orders for spring lines are also received.

"Failures this week in the United States are 216, against 198 last week, 211 the preceding week and 227 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 20, against 29 last week, 19 the preceding week and 20 last year."

WHY EYESIGHT FAILS

INFERIOR ARTIFICIAL LIGHT FREQUENTLY THE CAUSE.

Illuminants of the Past, One and All, Have Serious Defects—Acetylene Gas, With Its Clear, Unwavering, Yet Soft Flame Cannot Hurt the Eyes.

New York, June 20.—No one can go into our schools or meet a group of children on the street without noticing how large a number of them wear spectacles. The proportion seems to increase yearly, and there are many more who ought to wear glasses. The experience of one teacher might be duplicated by the score. She knew Alice was inattentive and she thought she was unusually stupid. She said so to the principal and sent a note to the mother, requesting that the child be helped at home if she wished her to keep up with her class. One day after a blackboard explanation, the teacher called upon the child and found that she had not seen what had been written. She was kept after school and by dint of much sympathetic questioning Miss C. found that Alice had never been able to see what was put on the board and that her head had ached so often and so hard that she frequently failed to hear what was said.

Such a condition may be caused by lack of proper food, but in our American homes it is usually due to the poor quality of the artificial light. The yellow, insufficient light of the ordinary kerosene lamp, with its smoky chimney, is about as bad for the eyes as can be imagined. The flickering light from a coal gas jet is but little better, and even the electric light, brilliant as it usually is, has an unsteadiness due to variations in power, and a glare peculiarly trying to the delicate nerves of sight. The comparatively new illuminant acetylene gas produces as nearly perfect an artificial light as has yet been found. It gives a clear white, unwavering light, very brilliant, yet perfectly soft, and so nearly like the rays of the sun that even colors appear as in daylight.

Fortunately, acetylene is very easily and cheaply produced, and the simple apparatus necessary can be purchased and installed in any home at a very moderate cost, and the acetylene can be piped to convenient points in the house where a light is needed. It is then lighted and extinguished and used exactly like common city gas.

Acetylene is rapidly coming into common use in homes, churches, schools and institutions of all kinds, and it is reasonable to expect that as its use in the home increases, there will be fewer defective eyes, particularly among children. Poor eyesight and the many ills resulting therefrom will undoubtedly be much reduced by the use of this new illuminant.

Maple Sugar in Tons.

Some idea of the magnitude of the maple sugar industry as carried on in Vermont may be had from the fact that at the single station of East Berkshire Herman Chaffee loaded twenty-two tons of the sweet and A. J. Croft loaded eight. At the same time one buyer alone has gathered up over forty tons of sugar and two carloads of sirup. The banner sugar maker of this section is Norman Hogaboom of South Richmond, who has produced 7,530 pounds from 2,000 trees and sold the whole for $677.70.

AN AWFUL SKIN HUMOR

Covered Head, Neck and Shoulders—Suffered Agony For Twenty-Five Years Until Cured by Cuticura.

"For twenty-five years I suffered agony from a terrible humor, completely covering my head, neck and shoulders, discharging matter of such offensiveness to sight and smell that I became an object of dread. I consulted the most able doctors far and near, to no avail. Then I got Cuticura, and in a surpisingly short time I was completely cured. I advise all those suffering from skin humors to get Cuticura and end their misery at once. S. P. Keyes, 149 Congress Street, Boston, Mass."

Hadn't Noticed Bird's Absence.

A curious incident happened in England recently during a wedding. The vicar, supposing the party to be complete, began the service, quite unconscious of the fact that the bride had not arrived. Instead of stopping him the bridegroom, best man and others remained silent from sheer nervousness and presently, when the bride and her father, who had been delayed, hurriedly entered. The father quaintly apologized by saying: "Excuse me for interrupting; some mistake has been made." Explanations followed and the service was begun again.

ALL DONE OUT.

Veteran Joshua Heller, of 706 South Walnut street, Urbana, Ill., says: "In the fall of 1899, after taking Doan's Kidney Pills I told the readers of this paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades. During the interval which has elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnings of an attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically endorse the preparation to-day as I did over two years ago.'"

GOOD LUCK Baking Powder

make it the most widely chosen of all leavening agents. During this year 16,145,114 pounds have been sold (many orders coming in for car-load shipments), which is the largest business for a single factory in the world. This is only the inevitable result of the original Good Luck plan—to furnish the best baking powder in the world at the lowest price—10 cents a pound. Good Luck is the best because it is purest, because it produces the lightest, whitest, sweetest of baking. These results are due to its unequaled leavening force, to the fact that it contains no adulteration whatever. It is the most economical because it takes less to do the work than any other baking powder. If your dealer doesn't sell Good Luck let us know, and we'll see that you are supplied at once.

The Secret of Good Coffee

Even the best housekeepers cannot make a good cup of coffee without good material. Dirty, adulterated and queerly blended coffee such as unscrupulous dealers shovel over their counters won't do. But take the pure, clean, natural flavored

LION COFFEE, the leader of all package coffees—the coffee that for over a quarter of a century has been daily welcomed in millions of homes—and you will make a drink fit for a king in this way:

HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.

Use LION COFFEE, because to get best results you must use the best coffee.

Grind your LION COFFEE rather fine. Use "a tablespoonful to each cup, and one extra for the pot." First mix it with a little cold water, enough to make a thick paste, and add white of an egg (if egg is to be used as a settler), then follow one of the following rules:

1st. WITH BOILING WATER. Add boiling water, and let it boil THREE MINUTES ONLY. Add a little cold water and set aside five minutes to settle. Serve promptly.

2d. WITH COLD WATER. Add your cold water to the paste and bring it to a boil. Then set aside, add a little cold water, and in five minutes it's ready to serve.

DON'TS 3 (Don't boil it too long. Don't let it stand more than ten minutes before serving. Don't use water that has been boiled before.

TWO WAYS TO SETTLE COFFEE.

1st. With Eggs. Use part of the white of an egg, mixing it with the ground LION COFFEE before boiling.

2d. With Cold Water instead of eggs. After boiling add a dash of cold water, and set aside for eight or ten minutes, then serve through a strainer.

Insist on getting a package of genuine LION COFFEE, prepare it according to this recipe and you will only use LION COFFEE in future. (Sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages.)

(Lion head on every package.)

New $20 Gold Note.

The Treasury Department began the issue of a new $20 gold certificate of an entirely original design, to take the place of the old certificates.

The action of the department is entirely commendable, everybody, especially newspaper men, were sick and tired of having that old twenty-dollar gold certificate poked at them a few times every day in the week. Indeed, the editor of the Reporter has not accepted one of the old style $20 gold certificates for some time. The new, original, modern design of that denomination will, however, be accepted at this office as part payment on all bills now due.

Frank Stoughton Killed.

Frank Stoughton, a civil engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad with headquarters at the Union Station, Harrisburg, was instantly killed Wednesday afternoon, of last week, a short distance west of Steelton, by the first section of Fast line.

Frank was twenty-three years of age and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Stoughton, his father being supervisor of the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad, and the following brothers and sisters: Annie, Mrs. P. Creigher, Plainfield, N. J.; Thomas Stoughton, Pittsburg; Mrs. Walter Hill, Scranton; Mrs. Christian Mathewson, New York; Margaret and Augustus, at home.

H. E. Duck is attending as a delegate the bi-ennial meeting of the general synod of the Lutheran church in session at Pittsburg this week.

ALPINE GUIDES.

The Trouble They Sometimes Have With Reckless Climbers.

The Alpine guide frequently risks his health, strength, even his life, for persons who may have been themselves the cause of the peril encountered. The qualities of a first class guide, says the author of "Adventures on the Roof of the World," include not only skill in climbing, but the ability to form sound conclusions in moments of danger. A certain climber tells an anecdote which bears on the importance of the guide's powers of judgment.

A member of the Alpine club was ascending a peak in company with an Oberland guide. Part of their course lay over a snow field which sank gradually on one side, sharply ended by a precipice on the other. The two were walking along not far from the edge of this precipice when the Englishman, thinking that an easier path might be made by going still nearer the edge, diverged a little from his companion's track. To his surprise, the guide immediately caught hold of him and pulled him back with more vigor than ceremony, well nigh throwing him down in the operation. Wrathful and not disinclined to return the compliment, the Englishman remonstrated. The guide's only answer was to point to a small crack, apparently like scores of other cracks in the neve, which ran for some distance parallel to the edge of the precipice.

The traveler was not satisfied, but he was too wise a man to argue while a desired summit was still some distance above him. On the descent when the scene of the morning's incident was reached the guide pointed to the crack, which had grown perceptibly wider.

"This marks," he said, "the place where the true snow field ends. I feel certain that the ice from here to the edge is nothing but an unsupported cornice hanging over the tremendous precipice below. It might possibly have borne your weight, though I don't think it would." Thereupon he struck the neve on the farther side of the ice sharply with his ax. A huge mass immediately broke away and went roaring down the cliff.

The traveler was full of amazement and admiration and thought how there, on an easy mountain and in smiling weather, he had been very near to making himself into an avalanche.

SYMPATHY.

Sympathy is food to a starving heart.

Sympathy is two hearts pulling at one load.

Sympathy is the staff on which trouble leans.

Sympathy is the cream that rises on the milk of human kindness.

Sympathy in sorrow's hour is like the gentle rain to drooping flowers.

Sympathy is the least the rich may give, the most the poor can offer.

Sympathy is the blossom grown from the costly bulb called personal suffering.

Sympathy is a well-toned instrument that readily responds to notes of weal or woe.

Sympathy is the most powerful human magnet for attracting and holding friendship.

Sympathy is perfect forgetfulness of oneself in true feeling for the unhappiness of others.

Sympathy is love's healing balm spread by pity's tender hand on sorrow's heart wound.

Artificial Beauty In Rome.

Personal artifice is at least as old as the Roman empire, for, speaking of the artificial beauty of a coquette, Martial says: "Gellia, you are but a composition of falsehood. While you were living at Rome your hair was growing on the banks of the Rhine. At night when you lay aside your silken robes you lay aside your teeth also. Two-thirds of your person are locked up in boxes for the night. The eyebrows with which you make such insinuating motions are the work of your slaves. Thus no man can say, 'I love you,' for you are not what he loves, and no one loves what you are."

A Lord Sold Into Slavery.

Charles Reade found the hero of his novel, "The Wandering Heir," in the person of Lord Altham of Ireland, who was sold as a "redemptioner" at Philadelphia in 1728 and who served for twelve years in effect as a slave to one or more masters in Lancaster county, Pa. The young nobleman was recognized by two Irishmen who came by accident to the house where he lived, and Admiral Vernon afterward took him back to Ireland. Reade laid the scene of Lord Altham's servitude in northern Delaware, but it is pretty well established that this was an error.

The Saving Light.

We boast our light; but if we look not wisely on the sun itself, it smites us into darkness. The light which we have gained was given us not to beever staring on, but by it to discover onward things now remote from all knowledge.—Milton.

When a Kick Helps.

When one lacks the courage boldly to advance along the perilous course his intelligence counsels, he is lucky if he can and will goad some one into kicking him along it past the point where retreat is impossible.—Success.

Love.

George—Are you quite sure that you really love me? Bessie—Oh, yes; certain of it. I never knew any one that could make me so furiously angry at times!—Exchange.

James Reed is having the finishing touch put on his new cottage with a coat of paint. J. P. Weber and son and Frank Young are doing the work. They are also engaged at painting the home of A. H. Hosterman who recently built an addition to his house.

Mrs. E. E. Brown departed on Monday for a few weeks' visit to her only sister, Mrs. Jones, at Kylertown. She expects to be present at the marriage, and also the reception, of her nephew, Harvey Jones, and Miss Mary Beams. Before returning home she will also spend some time with friends in Altoona.

The June picnic Saturday was one of the most enjoyable events of the season. The weather was all that could be desired; the place one of the most picturesque in the country, and the refreshments of the first quality. Young people from Baileyville, Pine Grove Mills, Boalsburg, State College, Oak Hall, Linden Hall, Lemont and Pleasant Gap were present. 68 names were registered. The party had their picture taken, and explored the "coal mine," near Reitz's Gap.

LOCALS.

A new walk was built from the United Evangelical church door to the main walk.

General Linevitch is in favor of continuing the war to the bitter end and declares he can drive Oyama out of Manchuria. The old man babbles.

Mrs. Mary Odenkirk and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Alexander, last week, went to Mifflinburg to visit friends. The Alexanders returned this week, but the former is prolonging her visit.

Rev. John H. Keller, of Mt. Pleasant, North Carolina, is home for a short vacation. The south seems to agree with the young minister, who not only preaches but teaches as well.

Lincoln Steffens has found good government in Ohio. Not in the state administration and not throughout the cities but in Cleveland. "Ohio: A Tale of Two Cities," in the July McClure's, is the story of Cleveland and of Cincinnati, the best and the worst governed cities in the United States.

The services in the Reformed church Sunday evening were reported by those present to have been highly interesting and creditable to the children who participated. As was mentioned in a recent issue of the Reporter, too much importance can not be attached to services devoted to the children of the church.

The Orangeville (Illinois) Courier says: Mrs. J. M. Swartz, a resident of Dakota village for many years, passed away Friday. Her demise was due to old age. Mrs. Swartz was a cousin of Geo. F. Swartz, the Freeport druggist, and was eighty years old. Her husband died several years ago. They were the parents of eleven children.

THE SHARPLESS TUBULAR CREAM SEPARATOR is a short cut, saving half the dairy work. It is a low-down machine. There is no drudgery in washing the simple three piece Dairy Tubular Separator bowl. Avoid bucket bowls. They're all full of troublesome parts. Twenty-six sizes—take the one that will accommodate your herd. Considering the durability of the machine, the price is the lowest of any separator on the market. For further particulars write or apply in person to
